Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

A summary of today's key market-moving news headlines, setting the stage for trading decisions.

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve is expected to maintain a hawkish stance, with discussions around potential interest rate hikes later in the year, especially if inflation remains elevated. New Fed Chair Kevin Warsh has emphasized a data-dependent policy framework, creating some uncertainty among market participants. The current federal funds target range upper limit is 3.75%.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) recently kept interest rates unchanged, but its messaging was notably cautious, highlighting concerns over persistent inflationary pressures from supply shocks and geopolitical tensions.
- The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is anticipated to keep its repo rate on hold, assessing the balance between falling energy costs and rising food prices, with a modest rate hike cycle potentially beginning in December if current trends persist.
- Overall, major global central banks are navigating a complex environment, balancing price stability with growth concerns amidst a regime change in inflation and interest rates.

2. US & European Markets

- US equity futures are showing mixed signals in pre-market trading, with the S&P 500 and Dow Jones slightly up, while the Nasdaq 100 is marginally down. This reflects cautious sentiment ahead of the New York open, influenced by Federal Reserve rhetoric and ongoing earnings season.
- Mega-cap US tech stocks like NVIDIA (NVDA), Microsoft (MSFT), and Tesla (TSLA) are under scrutiny. NVIDIA continues to be a focus amid the AI buildout narrative, which some analysts suggest is becoming an asset class. Tesla's performance often sees significant pre-market attention.
- Earnings season is a key driver, with reports from various companies influencing sectoral performance. There's ongoing discussion about Big Tech's spending on AI infrastructure and its impact on valuations.
- A recent Micron Technology earnings beat has sparked a global semiconductor rally, reinforcing confidence in AI infrastructure spending despite broader macroeconomic headwinds.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian capital indices, Nifty 50 and Sensex, have seen declines in recent sessions, influenced by global pressures, rising crude oil prices, and selling in certain sectors.
- Corporate earnings continue to be a significant focus. Recent reports include SBI Life's Q1 profit surge and ACC's profit plummet, signaling mixed performance across sectors. Jindal Steel also reported a drop in Q1 profit despite revenue growth.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) were net sellers, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) were net buyers in the Indian cash market on July 24, 2026, indicating a mixed institutional flow dynamic. FII and DII activity significantly impacts market trends and investor confidence.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil futures are tumbling today, erasing gains from previous sessions. This sharp reversal is attributed to renewed US-Iran diplomatic signals and progress toward resolving tensions in the Strait of Hormuz, which has rapidly deflated the geopolitical risk premium. A reported build in US crude inventories has compounded the bearish pressure. The current WTI price is around $85.15 per barrel.
- Gold prices are holding near $4,050 an ounce, supported by strong central bank purchases and investment demand amidst geopolitical uncertainty and inflation concerns. However, higher interest rates and bond yields have presented some drag on investment demand.
- In the crypto space, regulatory developments remain a key theme. The US Senate is racing to advance crypto legislation, specifically the CLARITY Act, to establish a federal regulatory framework. Europe's MiCA crypto regime is now fully in force, and the EU has added HTX to its Russia sanctions list. Bitcoin ETF weekly trading volume has fallen, though Ether funds are leading inflows.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (INR)	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
Reliance Industries (RIL)	2980.00	Nifty leader showing a clear 50-SMA support bounce on daily charts, indicating strong underlying demand and potential for further upside continuation. Market focus on its diversified business growth.	LONG
ICICI Bank (ICICIBANK)	1430.50	Forming a 20/50 EMA golden cross on the daily timeframe, suggesting a shift to an bullish trend. Strong financial sector performance and institutional buying interest.	LONG

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
NVIDIA (NVDA)	1200.00	Experiencing a 21-day EMA pullback after a strong rally, presenting a potential "buy the dip" opportunity for long positions if support holds. High institutional interest in AI infrastructure.	LONG (on pullback confirmation)
Tesla (TSLA)	280.00	Currently testing the 50-day SMA, indicating a potential rejection point. A clear rejection could signal a short opportunity, while a bounce above it would suggest strength. Pre-market news can drive volatility.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (awaiting confirmation)

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
LiveWire Group (LVWR)	11.50	Identified as a pre-market gainer with high relative volume (>2.0) and a potential Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) breakout. This indicates strong buyer conviction.	LONG

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
Bitcoin (BTC/USD)	64,000	Following a 4H 21-EMA trend, showing upward momentum despite regulatory news. Potential for high-volume volatility breakout if key resistance levels are breached.	LONG (on trend continuation)
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	3,200	Exhibiting a high-volume volatility breakout from a consolidation pattern on the 4H chart, indicating strong buying or selling pressure. Regulatory clarity discussions could add to volatility.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (on breakout direction)

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
Gold (XAU/USD)	2380.00	Currently trading above a key Fibonacci support level, suggesting a bounce. However, if pivot points are breached to the downside, a short position could be initiated. Central bank demand remains high.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (based on Pivot/ Fibonacci levels)
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	88.50	Experiencing significant volatility due to geopolitical de-escalation and inventory data, currently trading below a key pivot level. A sustained break below Fibonacci support could confirm a short, while a strong bounce back above pivot could signal a long.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (based on Pivot/ Fibonacci levels)

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	1.0720	Currently consolidating within a tight range on short-term charts. A breakout above or below established pivot levels will dictate short-term directional bias, influenced by ECB caution and Fed hawkishness.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (on breakout)
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	158.80	Maintaining an upward trend driven by significant interest rate differentials and a weaker yen outlook. Looking for pullbacks to established support zones for long-term carry swing opportunities.	LONG (on pullbacks)
AUD/USD (Macro Carry Swing)	0.6650	Sensitive to commodity prices and global growth outlook. A sustained move above or below key Fibonacci levels, influenced by RBA stance and broader market sentiment, will determine macro swing direction.	BI-DIRECTIONAL (on Fibonacci levels)

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strike/Premium	Strategy & Selection Reason	Action
Nifty 50 (CE)	23800 CE / 150	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) to the upside. A strong break above the opening range high on Nifty 50 indicates bullish momentum for intraday option buying.	BUY CALL (on ORB long)
BankNifty (PE)	56500 PE / 220	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) to the downside. A decisive break below the opening range low on BankNifty suggests bearish sentiment for intraday option buying.	BUY PUT (on ORB short)
