Current Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The Federal Reserve maintained its policy rate at 3.50%–3.75% for a fifth consecutive meeting on July 29, but the decision saw three officials dissent in favor of a rate hike. Markets are testing the Fed's anti-inflation commitment, with some traders pricing in a 58.4% chance of a rate hike in September.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) kept its deposit facility rate unchanged at 2.25% at its July meeting, though energy price rebounds prompted precautionary hikes earlier. Euro-denominated gold prices rose due to revised ECB monetary policy easing expectations following disappointing economic indicators in the Eurozone.
- The Bank of Japan (BoJ) kept its policy rate unchanged at 1.00% following a June increase, with underlying inflation approaching its 2% target. However, minutes show the board debated mounting price risks despite the June hike. The US dollar strengthened against the yen earlier in the year, prompting joint US-Japan intervention to manage currency volatility.
- Global macro context is unusually calm this morning, with major bond yields and key currencies essentially unchanged, and oil trading in a tight range, reflecting a "wait-and-see" approach amidst suppressed volatility.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are mixed ahead of Wednesday's session. Dow Jones Industrial Average futures are up 0.3%, S&P 500 futures gained 0.4%, while Nasdaq futures edged up 0.2%. This follows Tuesday's rally where the S&P 500 and Dow closed at record highs.
- SpaceX's shares slid 10% in premarket trading despite nearly doubling revenue and narrowing operating losses, as investors focused on rising capital expenditures for AI and the expiry of a post-IPO lock-up period.
- Advanced Micro Devices (AMD) shares slipped 8.1% despite forecasting quarterly revenue above estimates, suggesting investors sought a stronger outlook to justify its 142% year-to-date jump. Conversely, Nvidia's shares rose 1.9%, partly due to SpaceX's plans to use Nvidia's hardware exclusively for data center builds.
- Microsoft (MSFT) stock jumped significantly in July after its Q4 2026 results showed 18% year-on-year revenue growth and Azure cloud division crossing $100 billion in annual revenue, easing investor concerns about AI capital expenditure. Microsoft's market cap added a record $450 billion in one day.
- Tesla (TSLA) fell 26.01% in July, despite record Q2 deliveries, as market focus shifted to profitability concerns and lower-than-expected adjusted earnings per share due to collapsing regulatory credit revenue and declining average selling prices.
- The global wide bandgap semiconductors market is expanding, with Silicon Carbide (SiC) leading, driven by automotive electrification and renewable energy investments, expected to reach USD 348.5 million in 2026.
- European equities ended July strongly, with the STOXX 600 and Germany's DAX reaching record highs, supported by robust corporate earnings and AI-related investment.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Dalal Street ended in the green, with the Sensex closing 150 points up, while the Nifty50 stayed flat.
- The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is expected to announce its Monetary Policy Committee meeting outcome today, with economists broadly anticipating the repo rate to remain unchanged at 5.25%.
- Domestic institutional investors (DIIs) have emerged as the biggest market owners, absorbing a $58 billion FII selloff over the past 22 months. DIIs now hold 21% of the Nifty 500, surpassing foreign institutional investors (FIIs) at 17%.
- FIIs have turned two-way in July, with net sales of roughly Rs 2.7 lakh crore so far in 2026, while DIIs have net purchased about Rs 4.16 lakh crore.
- A new Closing Auction Session for derivatives-linked stocks reshaped trading patterns, leading to profit booking in heavyweight sectors and increased benchmark volatility.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil fell to $75.46 USD/Bbl on August 5, 2026, down 0.40% from the previous day, primarily due to hopes of a U.S.-Iran deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz, easing geopolitical tensions and supply disruption concerns. However, tight physical supplies could limit further losses.
- Gold prices surged above $4,130 an ounce as diminishing energy price risk trimmed inflation and Fed rate hike expectations. COMEX gold was up 1.7% at $4,223.1/oz. Gold demand in Q2 2026 was unchanged year-on-year, with central banks continuing to buy in healthy size.
- The CLARITY Act, a comprehensive crypto market-structure bill, faces a decisive moment this week in the US Senate. Prediction markets currently price only around a 26% chance of the bill becoming law in 2026, which aims to clarify whether digital assets are securities (SEC) or digital commodities (CFTC).
- Americans are increasingly open to tokenized assets, especially when presented as a modernization of familiar, regulated finance. A national survey shows 50% interest in tokenized versions of standard investments after learning their benefits, with trust favoring traditional financial institutions.
- The GENIUS Act, signed into law in July 2025, created a federal framework for payment stablecoins, leading to banks and payment firms adopting and issuing stablecoins under new rules, ensuring reserve requirements and audit standards.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

1. INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
Reliance Industries (RIL)	₹2,950	Long	Nifty Leader showing a bounce from its 50-SMA support on the daily chart, indicating sustained uptrend momentum amid broader market stability.
HDFC Bank	₹1,680	Long	Exhibiting a fresh 20/50 EMA Golden Cross on the daily timeframe, signaling strengthening bullish sentiment and potential for further upward movement.
Infosys	₹1,500	Long	Consolidating above its 50-SMA after a recent correction, suggesting accumulation and readiness for a renewed upmove, supported by FII/DII inflows in the IT sector.

2. US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVIDIA (NVDA)	$1,180	Long	Showing a strong pullback to the 21-day EMA on the 4-hour chart, indicating a potential bounce given its leadership in AI and positive news from SpaceX utilizing its hardware.
Tesla (TSLA)	$210	Short	Failed to hold above its 50-day SMA, coupled with recent market focus on profitability concerns over volume, suggesting a rejection and further downside potential.
Microsoft (MSFT)	$455	Long	Consolidating after strong earnings and significant market cap increase, holding above its 21-day EMA, implying continued bullish sentiment for a retest of recent highs.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
DraftKings (DKNG)	$48	Long	Exhibiting a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) setup on the daily chart, characterized by tight price action and decreasing volume, indicating potential for an explosive breakout.
Palantir (PLTR)	$28	Long	Displaying high Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) on a breakout above a key resistance level, indicating strong institutional interest and momentum.

3. CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
Bitcoin (BTC/USD)	$72,500	Long	Sustained trend following above the 4H 21-EMA after a significant volume spike, suggesting continuation of the bullish trend amidst positive sentiment around tokenization.
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	$4,100	Long	Breaking out of a high-volume consolidation range on the 4H chart, indicating a volatility expansion phase with potential for upward momentum, aligned with positive crypto regulation discussions.

4. COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
Gold (XAU/USD)	$4,220	Long	Bouncing from a key Fibonacci retracement level after recent strength, coupled with geopolitical instability concerns and strong central bank demand, suggesting continued upside. Entry: $4,200 | Target: $4,250 | Stop: $4,180
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	$75.10	Short	Rejecting a Fibonacci extension level ($79.11-80.59) after a recent breakdown from a rising wedge pattern, indicating resumed downside potential following easing Middle East tensions. Entry: $75.50 | Target: $74.00 | Stop: $76.20

5. FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	1.1550	Long	Consolidating near two-month highs and benefiting from broad dollar weakness, a clear breakout above 1.154 could lead to further gains. Entry: 1.1560 | Target: 1.1600 | Stop: 1.1530
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	157.80	Short	Consolidating below 158.00. While the BoJ minutes showed debate on hikes, US-Japan intervention and potential shifts in Fed policy can pressure the pair down. Entry: 157.90 | Target: 157.00 | Stop: 158.30

6. INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Approx.)	Action	Strategy & Selection Reason
