Daily Multi-Asset Trading Blueprint & Level Execution Manual

Date: Friday, August 21, 2026

Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US Federal Reserve: Concerns about inflation deepened at the Fed's July meeting, with "many" policymakers indicating that further tightening would be necessary if inflation did not decline to the 2.0% target. The Fed held its benchmark interest rate in the 3.50-3.75% range, though three policymakers dissented in favor of a quarter-percentage point hike. Markets will be watching Chairman Warsh's remarks at the upcoming Jackson Hole symposium for clues on the Fed's stance.
- US Treasury Bond Buybacks: The US Treasury's initiative to double long-term debt buybacks to contain borrowing costs initially eased upward pressure on yields, but skepticism remains, with yields on 10-year and 30-year Treasuries rebounding. Total US debt surpassed $40 trillion this week, intensifying investor wariness.
- Eurozone: The Eurozone Consumer Confidence data and flash PMIs for August are key releases today, which could influence EUR/USD sensitivity to rate-pricing shifts. The EUR/USD exchange rate has strengthened recently, driven by persistent weakness in the US dollar.
- Japan: Japan's core consumer inflation accelerated in July, strengthening the case for a rate hike from the Bank of Japan.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street Pre-Market Movers: US stock futures are flat to mildly advanced in Asian trading hours, following a down session on Wall Street yesterday where the Dow, S&P 500, and Nasdaq all closed lower due to rebounding US Treasury yields. Investor concerns about higher borrowing costs potentially hindering the bull market are prevalent.
- Mega-Cap US Stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA): No specific pre-market news on individual mega-cap tech earnings or significant movers for NVDA, MSFT, or TSLA was immediately available, but the broader tech sector sentiment is influenced by AI infrastructure capital expenditure.
- Semiconductor Developments: The market continues to show resilience, driven by an "insatiable, secular wave of AI infrastructure capital expenditure".
- European Markets: The STOXX 600's growth indicates rising confidence in European markets.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Sensex/Nifty Updates: Indian equity benchmark indices are expected to open with a positive bias or flat, after Nifty and Sensex staged a recovery in the previous session, breaking a seven-day losing streak. However, the underlying market mood remains cautious due to higher crude prices and rebounding US Treasury yields.
- Corporate Earnings: No major specific corporate earnings headlines for today, but positive updates from Bharti Airtel and Exide Industries (partnership with GreenLine Mobility) were noted recently.
- FII/DII Institutional Flows: Foreign investor flows remain an important factor, with easing global bond yields and domestic buying supporting the recent rebound.
- Sectoral Momentum: IT, FMCG, Realty, and Banking stocks led the recovery in the previous session. Mid-cap and small-cap stocks are expected to show momentum due to attractive valuations.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil Geopolitics & OPEC+: Crude oil prices have surged, with Brent crude trading around $93.82 a barrel, driven by uncertainty surrounding the US-Iran conflict and disruptions to oil flows through the Strait of Hormuz. The US is preparing sweeping new economic sanctions against Iran. WTI crude is trading around $85.928. The 60-day US Treasury license allowing Iranian crude production, delivery, and sale expired on August 21, 2026, creating a catalyst for the oil market given low US distillate inventories.
- Gold Supply/Demand Drivers: Gold is trading above $4,500 an ounce and is on course for a third consecutive weekly gain. It is supported by safe-haven demand amidst currency and bond market volatility, rising oil prices, robust investment demand, and continued central bank purchases.
- Major Crypto Regulatory/Adoption Headlines: The crypto market has been revitalized, with Bitcoin jumping 7.6% and nearing $75K, and Ethereum also rising. The Fear & Greed Index is at 72 (Greed). The rally is partly attributed to the US Treasury's bond buyback plans, viewed as a "quiet form of quantitative easing," weakening the dollar and sending debasement-hedge assets like Bitcoin higher. The Clarity Act, intended to give the SEC and CFTC oversight into crypto trading, is stalled in Congress.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Nifty 50 has recently reclaimed its 50-day DEMA and 100-day DEMA, signalling an improvement in near-term momentum. The 24,000 level is a crucial support zone. Sustained buying above 24,375 is crucial to negate the short-term downtrend.

| Ticker | Current Price (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| BHARTIARTL | ₹1,992.10 | Nifty leader showing a 50-SMA support bounce in recent trading. Positive corporate news regarding spectrum dues improves financials. |
| ICICIBANK | ₹1,417.00 | Strong banking sector momentum, showing resilience and potential for 20/50 EMA golden cross on daily chart as Nifty recovers. |
| ADANIENT | ₹3,035.10 | Exhibiting a 50-SMA support bounce, strong recovery post-Nifty dip. Large-cap leader with robust underlying growth. |

US EQUITIES

| Ticker | Current Price (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| MSFT (Large-Cap) | $455.00 | Monitoring for a 21-day EMA pullback entry. Mega-cap growth leader, likely to attract buyers on any dip, supported by ongoing AI infrastructure spending. |
| NVDA (Large-Cap) | $1200.00 | Watching for a 50-day SMA rejection for potential short, or a strong bounce off the 21-day EMA for long. High volatility mega-cap tech, heavily influenced by AI trends. |
| SMCI (Mid-Cap) | $920.00 | High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) breakout potential, benefiting from strong semiconductor demand driven by AI. |

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Bitcoin nearing $75K, ETH rising, with the crypto market cap reaching $2.56T and Fear & Greed Index at 72.

| Ticker | Current Price (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| BTC/USDT | $73,307 | 4H 21-EMA trend following. Strong bullish momentum breaking out of consolidation. Long bias as it maintains above key moving averages. |
| ETH/USDT | $2,345 | High-volume volatility breakout. Ethereum has shown strong gains and is moving away from a bearish structure. Long bias on strength. |
| ALIGN/USDT | (Price Data N/A) | KuCoin top gainer for today, showing 103.40% increase in 24 hours. High-volume volatility breakout candidate for short-term bi-directional trading. |

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

| Ticker | Current Price (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| XAU/USD (Gold) | $4,512.94 | Trading above $4,500, showing positive momentum and sustained short-term bullish trend above EMA50. Pivot points and Fibonacci extensions for potential long entries. Key support at $4,479.79, resistance at $4,645.91. |
| WTI Crude Oil (USCrude) | $85.928 | Elevated due to US-Iran tensions and supply concerns, especially with the Iranian oil license expiring today. Watching for Pivot and Fibonacci extension levels to identify potential reversals or continuation of the upward trend. Consolidating in the $82.67-$85.09 range. |

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

| Ticker | Current Price (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| EUR/USD (Short-Term) | 1.1696 | Maintains strong bullish momentum, trading above EMA50, indicating a stable short-term bullish trend. Looking for long trades on pullbacks to support. |
| GBP/USD (Short-Term) | 1.35261 | Bullish candle on the weekly chart. Monitoring for short-term breakouts or pullbacks using key support (1.35159) and resistance (1.35390) levels. |
| USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing) | 145.50 | Monitoring for carry trade opportunities. Yen's outlook may be influenced by firmer CPI, but global central bank divergence creates potential for swing trades. |
| AUD/USD (Macro Carry Swing) | 0.6820 | Potential for weekly gains against a wobbling US dollar. Long-term carry swing based on commodity strength and relative central bank policies. |

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

| Ticker | Current Level (Indicative) | Strategy & Selection Reason |
|---|---|---|
| Nifty 50 Options | 24,231.85 (Close) | 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout. Long CALL if it breaks above the opening range high, short PUT if it breaks below the opening range low. Key support at 24,200, resistance at 24,337-24,435. |
| BankNifty Options | 52,000 (Indicative) | 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout. High liquidity index, suitable for intraday option buying strategies based on initial directional bias. |
