Session Highlight: 🇺🇸 New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

📰 SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- Investors are facing a challenging combination of strong US economic growth, higher oil prices, persistent inflation, and questions about AI investment returns. The S&P Global composite PMI for the US, while slightly down, still indicates strong expansion, with firms reporting their sharpest increase in selling prices in over four years, suggesting the economy doesn't need immediate monetary support.
- The Federal Reserve is expected to hold interest rates at the current target range of 3.75% to 4% with a 90% probability, though some anticipate a potential 0.25 percentage point hike. The Fed's rate decision is scheduled for Wednesday.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) is expected to hold rates this week, with renewed weakness in France weighing on Eurozone activity, making it harder to maneuver if energy prices remain elevated. The Bank of Japan is also expected to maintain its current policy.
- The dollar firmed, while the euro remained broadly stable against the dollar at $1.12. Brazilian assets are in focus following a surprise election result.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are largely higher this Monday, looking to rebound after a challenging previous week, with Dow futures up 0.51%, S&P 500 futures up 0.31%, and Nasdaq 100 futures up 0.25% as of 5:31 a.m. EDT.
- Wall Street closed a split week, with the S&P 500 finishing down about 0.5% and the Nasdaq Composite slipping about 0.7%, while the Dow managed a weekly gain near 0.4%. Technology stocks experienced a selloff, raising concerns about AI infrastructure spending.
- Microsoft, Alphabet, and Amazon are scheduled to report earnings this week, with investors keenly watching for signs that significant AI investments are yielding returns. Microsoft (MSFT) is a "Stock of the Week" as it reports earnings the same day as the Federal Reserve's rate decision.
- NVIDIA (NVDA) stock was up 0.2% in overnight trading, despite declining 1.5% last week, as GPU rental prices are rising sharply, indicating strong demand for computing power. Institutional investors collectively own 65.27% of NVIDIA. However, some analysts express concerns about NVIDIA "over-taxing" its balance sheet to finance customers.
- Tesla (TSLA) stock rose 1.93% in premarket trading after Barclays upgraded its rating to Overweight (Buy) and lifted its price target, citing an "attractive risk/reward" as its auto business returns to growth and demand for energy products rises. Speculation about a potential merger with SpaceX is also a notable factor.
- European markets opened higher, with Germany's DAX surging 0.7%, the CAC 40 in Paris picking up 0.9%, and Britain's FTSE 100 adding 0.5%. Asian markets were mixed, with Tokyo's Nikkei 225 slipping 0.8% and Kospi in Seoul dropping 1.5%.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity benchmarks, Sensex and Nifty 50, ended Monday's choppy trade on a bullish note, with Sensex up 0.66% at 73,606.75 and Nifty 50 up 0.68% at 22,753.20.
- The Nifty Midcap 100 ended 1.19% higher, while the Nifty Smallcap 100 gained 1.38%, recovering from earlier lows. Sectorally, Nifty Metal and Pharma were the top gainers, both up nearly 2%.
- Dr. Reddy's Laboratories and JSW Steel were among the top gainers on the Nifty50. Infosys weighed on the IT sector after cutting its annual revenue growth forecast.
- The rupee opened 1 paise stronger against the US dollar at 94.93 but later ended down 0.3% at 95.1850 per US dollar. Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) bought shares worth Rs 890 crore on Friday.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Oil prices fell more than 1% on Monday after rising last week to their highest level in over four years, with Brent crude down 1.7% to $109.86 a barrel and US benchmark crude sinking 2.1% to $101.08 a barrel. This follows reports of rising tensions in the Middle East and a potential renewed attack on Iran.
- Gold (XAU/USD) is influenced by higher yields and a stronger dollar, making non-yielding assets less attractive. Key support levels for today are around $4,007.83, while key resistance is at $4,057.82. Classic pivot levels for XAUUSD are set at 5 pm New York rollover.
- Bitcoin continues to trade within the $83,000–$85,000 range despite sharp swings in institutional flows, including outflows of around $635 million on October 22. Concerns over AI trade intensified ahead of earnings from US megacap tech companies, potentially impacting broader crypto sentiment.
