Session Highlight:  New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve raised the target range for the federal funds rate by 25 basis points (bps) to 3.75%-4.00% in September 2026, marking the first rate hike since 2023, with policymakers indicating potential for at least one more 25bps increase this year.
- Global inflation remains elevated, with readings reaching 3.4% in the US and UK, and similar levels across Canada (3.0%), Australia (3.2%), New Zealand (4.1%), and the Euro area (Germany 2.9%, France 2.6%, Spain 4.6%).
- The Bank of Japan increased its benchmark interest rate by 25 bps to 1.25%, the highest since 1995, and signaled further rate hikes are likely.
- Central banks globally are expected to continue raising policy rates in a coordinated effort to combat energy-driven inflation.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street pre-market futures are showing modest gains, with the S&P 500, Nasdaq 100, Dow Jones, and Russell 2000 indices all slightly up (0.18%-0.27%) in early trading for Monday.
- The positive sentiment is largely driven by continued enthusiasm for technology and AI stocks, following developments such as Meta's Muse personal AI agent.
- The Nasdaq 100 gained 0.45% in the previous session, while the broader S&P 500 remained flat due to a selloff in financials.
- Premarket activity also highlighted rising AI chip stocks, including AMD, INTC, MU, and SNDK.
- In the semiconductor industry, TSMC is reportedly planning wafer foundry price increases for 2027 due to tight capacity and strong AI demand, with order visibility extending to 2030.
- European equities displayed mixed performance in the last trading session, with technology-led advances in the Euro Stoxx 50 (+0.10%) being offset by weakness in financials.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- The Indian equity markets (Sensex: 73895.74, +0.43%; Nifty 50: 23140.5, +0.34%) closed higher on the last trading day, demonstrating a rebound fueled by value buying.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) were net buyers of ₹1,617.45 Cr, and Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) were net buyers of ₹2,341.46 Cr in the cash segment on September 24, 2026.
- Recent corporate earnings reports show a mixed picture, with some companies like Vodafone Idea and Borosil Renewables turning profitable in Q4 FY26, while others, such as ESDS Software Solutions and PB Fintech, experienced profit declines due to various factors including regulatory changes.
- Sectors exhibiting strong performance on the last trading day and over the last week include Power Infrastructure, Diamond, Gems and Jewellery, Petrochemicals, Telecom Equipment & Infra Services, and Steel.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil has seen volatility, trading around $89.95, supported by escalating geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and Houthi attacks. However, reports of potential US-Iran truce talks have led to some softening in prices. Geopolitical risks are currently perceived to outweigh OPEC+ production increases.
- Gold (XAU/USD) is showing positive movement (+22.50) as per Google Finance data, potentially driven by persistent inflation concerns and its role as a safe-haven asset.
- In the cryptocurrency space, regulatory developments are a key focus. The CLARITY Act failed to pass the Senate, but the SEC has announced a temporary Innovation Exemption for trading tokenized US stocks. Additionally, the US Senate passed the GENIUS Act, establishing a framework for stablecoin regulation. The CFTC is also actively exploring new rules for crypto asset market structures.
- Major cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin and Ethereum are exhibiting positive price action over the weekend.

📈 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
RELIANCE INDUSTRIES (RIL)	As a Nifty heavyweight, RIL often leads market sentiment. Selected on the assumption of completing a 50-SMA support bounce on the last trading day, aligning with positive broader market sentiment and FII/DII buying in a top-performing sector (e.g., energy or petrochemicals related to the "Petrochemicals" sector showing strength last week) for Monday's open.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVIDIA (NVDA)	Showing positive pre-market momentum, driven by strong AI enthusiasm and positive semiconductor industry developments. Identified as a mega-cap growth leader, a potential long entry on a pullback to its 21-day EMA is sought, capitalizing on the underlying strength in the AI sector for Monday's open.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
Firefly Neuroscience, Inc. (AIFF)	Appeared as a significant pre-market gainer (+42.85%) on the previous session's news, indicating high relative volume and a potential Stage-2 VCP breakout opportunity for Monday's trading session.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	Exhibiting positive price movement (+13.15) over the weekend as per Google Finance data, suggesting a 4H 21-EMA trend following opportunity or a high-volume volatility breakout for early Monday trading, given the broader crypto market's positive sentiment.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	Strong bullish momentum fueled by escalating Middle East tensions and geopolitical risk premium. A long entry above a key pivot level is targeted, with careful risk management due to potential news on US-Iran truce talks.
Gold (XAU/USD)	Showing strong upward movement (+22.50) as per Google Finance over the weekend, likely driven by its safe-haven appeal and persistent inflation concerns. Aiming for a long entry on a pullback to a key Fibonacci support level.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
GBP/USD	UK inflation readings are elevated (3.4%), and the Bank of England is anticipated to hike interest rates further. This provides a backdrop for potential short-term volatility, prompting a focus on technical breakouts or rejections around identified pivot points.

Macro Carry Swing

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
AUD/JPY	This pair represents a classic carry trade, combining the higher-yielding Australian Dollar with the lower-yielding Japanese Yen. With both the RBA and BoJ undertaking tightening cycles, a swing trade aims to capitalize on sustained risk-on sentiment for AUD or relative interest rate differentials for directional momentum.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
BANKNIFTY Options	BankNifty recorded a modest gain on the last trading day. An Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy on Monday will be employed to capture initial directional conviction in the first 15 minutes, buying calls for a breakout to the upside or puts for a breakout to the downside.
