Current Session:  New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- Global bond yields are surging, with US 10-year Treasury yields approaching 5.1-5.2%, the highest seen since 2007. This rise is primarily driven by elevated energy prices and persistent expectations of further Federal Reserve monetary tightening to combat inflation.
- The bond market is displaying a flattening yield curve, as the spread between 10-year and 2-year Treasuries has narrowed to as little as 17 basis points, potentially signaling an impending economic slowdown or recession.
- The US Federal Reserve implemented a rate hike on September 16, and market probabilities indicate a 65-68% chance of an additional 25-50 basis point increase in October.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) also raised interest rates at its September meeting, with money markets pricing in up to four more quarter-point increases over the next year. ECB President Christine Lagarde is scheduled to deliver a speech.
- The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) is slated to announce its latest interest rate decision and hold a press conference tomorrow, September 29.
- The People's Bank of China (PBoC) has tightened its Yuan fix for the upcoming Thursday trading session.
- Indonesia's central bank has scaled back its foreign exchange interventions in the spot market due to the high associated costs.
- The US Dollar Spot Index has seen a 0.1% increase today and has risen by 2% throughout the month. Conversely, the Indian Rupee weakened against the USD, raising concerns about it potentially breaching the psychologically significant 96 level.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are showing an upward trend in early Monday trading, with technology and blue-chip stocks leading the gains, despite the backdrop of surging Treasury yields and escalating Middle East tensions. However, a Polymarket contract reflects only a 28% probability of a higher open for the S&P 500.
- Wall Street strategists, including David Spika, suggest a potential 5-10% upside for the S&P 500 before year-end if oil prices continue to decline, which would alleviate inflation concerns and lead to lower 10-year Treasury yields. Microsoft and Berkshire Hathaway are highlighted as favorable stock picks.
- In contrast to the broader positive sentiment, chip stocks are experiencing declines in pre-market trading, with Arm and Intel falling over 3%, AMD and Micron Technology down more than 2%, and NVIDIA also showing losses. This comes despite earlier reports of strong demand from companies like Apple, NVIDIA, AMD, Qualcomm, and MediaTek for TSMC's 2nm bookings, fueled by AI and HPC demand.
- European markets exhibited mixed openings, with major indices like Euro Stoxx 50, Dax 40, FTSE 100, FTSE MIB, IBEX 35, PSI, SMI, and AEX having closed higher on Friday (September 25th data, not today's pre-open). APAC stocks started the current week mixed, influenced by rising oil prices.
- Merger and acquisition (M&A) news includes BASF's exploratory talks for a potential takeover of Evonik, and Armani's reported discussions with LVMH, L'Oreal, and EssilorLuxottica regarding a 15% stake sale.
- The demand for Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) in Europe is robust, with assets under management and net inflows reaching unprecedented levels.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian stock market indices, Sensex and Nifty 50, opened lower today, September 28, 2026, with Sensex down by approximately 383-991 points and Nifty 50 trading below 23,050, even dipping below the 22,850 mark.
- The significant sell-off is primarily attributed to surging crude oil prices, escalating US Treasury yields, and substantial selling by Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs).
- Heavyweight stocks such as HDFC Bank, Reliance Industries, and ICICI Bank were among the leading detractors for the indices. The Nifty Metal and Nifty PSU Bank sectors were particularly hard hit.
- The India VIX, a measure of market volatility, surged by almost 15%, indicating heightened near-term volatility stemming from increased geopolitical tensions.
- From a technical perspective, the Nifty 50 exhibits a sideways-to-bearish trend, with key support levels identified at 23,000 and 22,700, and resistance at the 23,200-23,300 range.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) have been net sellers in September, offloading Rs 17,131 crore worth of equities, as higher US Treasury yields make emerging markets like India less appealing.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Crude Oil: Crude oil prices experienced a strong rebound, with Brent futures gaining 1.5-3% and WTI rising 1.1-2.32%, after US President Donald Trump rejected an Iranian peace proposal aimed at resolving regional conflicts and reopening the Strait of Hormuz. Geopolitical risks in the Middle East remain elevated due to ongoing Houthi and Iranian attacks on Saudi Arabia. Brent crude is currently trading around $106-107 per barrel, while WTI is around $93-94 per barrel.
- Crude Oil Inventories: US crude oil inventories unexpectedly surged by 2.969 million barrels, a stark contrast to market expectations for a decline. This unexpected build-up could potentially lead to lower oil prices in the future, possibly easing inflationary pressures.
- Gold: Gold prices are declining, experiencing a 0.5-1.5% drop today and a 2% decline last week. This is primarily due to rising crude oil prices fueling inflation concerns, expectations of further Federal Reserve rate hikes, a strengthening US dollar, and surging US Treasury yields. Gold is currently trading in the range of $4,197-$4,265 an ounce. Key support levels are identified at $4,185 and $4,121.
- Crypto: Bitcoin (BTC) is down 1.03% today, trading between $83,652-$84,883, and has seen a 3.82% decrease over the past seven days. This downturn is attributed to Federal Reserve monetary tightening, elevated Treasury yields making non-yielding Bitcoin less attractive, reduced gamma hedging due to quarterly options expiry, and moderated US spot ETF inflows. Bitcoin requires a 49% climb to reclaim its all-time high of $126,000, which was set in October 2025. A significant $202 billion US Treasury coupon settlement on September 30 will test overnight financing, and traders will be closely monitoring SOFR and Bitcoin funding for any potential pressure. Arthur Hayes predicts that Ethereum could reach $5,000 (from its current level of approximately $2,650) within the next 12 months, citing Robinhood's adoption of ETH technology as a potential catalyst for broader institutional adoption. Various crypto airdrops are currently underway, with some token liquidations and burning deadlines approaching.

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

(Note: Ticker selections are illustrative, based on prevailing news sentiment and technical strategies, as real-time market screening is not possible.)

Indian Equities (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
DRL (Dr Reddy's Lab)	Long	Nifty leader showing relative strength amidst broader market weakness. Looking for a bounce off the 50-SMA on daily chart, indicating potential reversal or consolidation before upward move.
COALINDIA (Coal India)	Long	Exhibiting resilience when other Nifty stocks are in decline. Monitoring for a confirmed 20/50 EMA golden cross on daily chart, signaling emerging bullish momentum.

US Equities

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
MSFT (Microsoft)	Long	Highlighted as a potential pick by strategists if oil prices ease. Seeking a pullback to the 21-day EMA on the daily chart, followed by a bullish engulfing or hammer candlestick, indicating a potential bounce for continued growth.
NVDA (NVIDIA)	Short	Reported declining in pre-market trading, suggesting immediate weakness. Looking for a clear rejection from the 50-day SMA on the daily chart, confirming resistance and potential for further downside.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
ENPH (Enphase Energy)	Long	Illustrative example of a renewable energy stock. Screening for a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) setup on the daily chart with increasing volume, indicating accumulation and readiness for a breakout.
SMCI (Super Micro Computer)	Long	Illustrative example in tech/AI infrastructure. Monitoring for a High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) breakout above a key resistance level on the daily or weekly chart, suggesting strong institutional interest.

Crypto Futures (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
BTC/USD	Short	Currently under pressure due to macro tightening and elevated Treasury yields, trading below key EMAs. Executing a 4H 21-EMA trend-following strategy, entering on a confirmed rejection of the EMA for a continued downtrend.
ETH/USD	Long	Positive long-term sentiment from industry experts (Arthur Hayes predicting $5,000). Looking for a high-volume volatility breakout above a significant resistance level on the 4H chart, indicating a strong impulse move upwards.

Commodities (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
WTI Crude Oil	Long	Strong rebound and elevated geopolitical risks in the Middle East. Identifying current daily pivot points and targeting Fibonacci extension levels (e.g., 1.272 or 1.618) as upside targets after a confirmed breakout above resistance.
XAU/USD (Gold)	Short	Under pressure from rising oil, hawkish Fed bets, strong USD, and high Treasury yields. Trading below key Fibonacci retracement levels (e.g., 61.8% of a previous upswing), suggesting further downside towards lower support levels like $4,185 or $4,121.

Forex Futures (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Short	ECB remains hawkish but strong USD and rising US yields exert pressure. Initiating a short trade on a confirmed breakdown below a key 4H support level, targeting previous lows.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Long	Strong USD momentum and sustained high US interest rate expectations (carry advantage). Holding a long position on strength above key resistance, riding the macro trend.

Indian Options (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
NIFTY 50 (Put Option)	Short (Put)	Indian market opened significantly lower, indicating strong bearish sentiment. Implementing a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy: if the price breaks below the opening 15-minute low, purchase an OTM (Out-of-the-Money) Put option with sufficient expiry to capitalize on downside momentum.
BANKNIFTY (Call Option)	Long (Call)	Monitoring for potential intraday recovery or strong relative strength. Implementing a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy: if the price breaks above the opening 15-minute high with strong volume, purchase an OTM (Out-of-the-Money) Call option. (Contrarian play, only if strong technical setup appears).
