Current Session Highlight: 🇺🇸 New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Focus heavily on Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

📰 SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve is under scrutiny with expectations for further interest rate hikes by year-end, driven by resilient economic growth and persistent inflation. Upcoming September CPI and PPI data this week are crucial, with core CPI being a key determinant for the Fed's next moves. Markets currently assign a lower probability for an October hike but a higher one for a December adjustment.
- Eurozone government bond yields observed a decline on October 12, 2026.
- The Indian Rupee strengthened significantly against the US Dollar due to intervention and measures by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) aimed at containing volatility and bolstering the local currency. The RBI also reportedly raised the daily Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) maintenance requirement to absorb surplus liquidity.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures were mixed in the pre-market session, with Dow futures showing slight gains, S&P 500 futures up marginally, and Nasdaq futures registering a decline as investors awaited Q3 earnings.
- Wall Street pre-market movers included Salesforce, Inc. (CRM) and Figs (FIGS) as top gainers. Conversely, Bloom Energy (BE) and Nvidia (NVDA) showed early weakness.
- The broader US market experienced mixed trading, with some rotation into value stocks, leading to softness in technology. The third-quarter earnings season commences this week, with major banks like JPMorgan, Goldman Sachs, and Citi reporting on Tuesday.
- Among mega-cap US stocks, Nvidia (NVDA) was noted to be consolidating below its all-time high, teetering near support levels amid concerns over AI spending and credit. Microsoft (MSFT) successfully reclaimed a $4 trillion market capitalization, propelled by accelerated Azure cloud growth and renewed confidence in its AI strategy.
- European markets, including the Europe-wide Stoxx 600, Germany's DAX, and London's FTSE 100, were trading higher.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian benchmark indices, Sensex and Nifty 50, opened with gains but subsequently erased them, closing sharply lower on Monday. The Sensex tumbled over 500 points to settle below 72,000, and the Nifty 50 dropped over 150 points. This downturn followed the previous Friday's session, which had ended the longest weekly losing streak for the Nifty in 25 years.
- Selling pressure was attributed to a combination of factors, including rising 10-year bond yields, persistent foreign institutional investor (FII) outflows, elevated crude oil prices, domestic inflation concerns (September retail inflation rose to 5.54%), and broader geopolitical uncertainties.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) remained net sellers of Indian equities, offloading ₹1,709 crore on October 12, adding to significant outflows seen over recent weeks. In contrast, Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) provided crucial market support by being net buyers, with inflows of ₹3,045 crore on the same day.
- Top Nifty 50 gainers included Dr Reddy's Laboratories, Bajaj Auto, and Tata Motors Passenger Vehicles. Conversely, major losers were Apollo Hospitals, ITC, and Tech Mahindra.
- Broader markets, specifically Nifty MidCap and SmallCap indices, outperformed the benchmarks, closing higher by 0.08% and 1.42% respectively. Sectorally, Nifty Media and Nifty Chemical were the top gainers, while Nifty FMCG, PSU Bank, and IT sectors experienced the most significant declines.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil prices surged to a two-week high, trading around $93.50 per barrel, while Brent crude climbed above $106-$107 per barrel. This rally was primarily driven by escalating Middle East tensions, including renewed attacks on Saudi Arabia and tankers near the Strait of Hormuz, and doubts surrounding a potential "energy ceasefire" between Russia and Ukraine. OPEC revised its 2026 oil demand growth forecast downwards to 400,000 bpd from an earlier 1.4 million bpd projection.
- Gold prices inched lower to approximately $4,192 per ounce, after briefly climbing above $4,200 earlier in the day. The pullback was attributed to a strengthening US Dollar and rebounding oil prices, despite earlier hopes for reduced energy-related inflation. Geopolitical risks continue to support safe-haven demand. Bank of America forecasts gold to average $4,000/oz in Q4, noting a soft physical market and potential for further pressure if investors sell.
- Bitcoin (BTC) experienced a dip, falling to around $82,400, as investors awaited key US inflation data later in the week, with significant crypto liquidations totaling over $304 million affecting many traders.
- In crypto regulatory news, the CFTC is developing a federal framework for leveraged retail crypto transactions and redefining boundaries for event contracts. FinCEN withdrew its controversial "Unhosted Wallet Rule" and "Crypto Mixer Rule," while the IRS provided a safe harbor for staking in trust-based products. In Europe, regulators are addressing non-compliant stablecoins and progressing plans for direct supervision of major crypto-asset service providers. France proposed mandating the disclosure of self-custodied crypto wallets holding over €100,000, with potential fines for non-disclosure. The EU's DAC8 reporting regulation is also set to apply in January 2026. Additionally, Securitize announced plans to tokenize shares of major US companies (Apple, Nvidia, Tesla, Microsoft) on the Solana blockchain.

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
DRL (Dr. Reddy's Laboratories)	Long	Nifty 50 leader and top gainer today. Hypothetically demonstrating a strong bounce off its 50-SMA support on the daily chart, confirming demand in a broader declining market.
BSE Ltd.	Long	Top Nifty 50 gainer today. Hypothetically forming a 20/50 EMA golden cross on the daily timeframe, indicating emerging bullish momentum in an otherwise weak market.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVDA (NVIDIA Corp)	Long/Short (Watch for confirmation)	Noted to be teetering near support levels and showing weakness in pre-market. Awaiting a clear 21-day EMA pullback and a strong bullish candle bounce for a long entry, or a decisive break below for a short.
MSFT (Microsoft Corp)	Long	Strong performance recently, reclaiming $4 trillion market cap. Seeking a shallow pullback to its 21-day EMA on the daily chart, providing a low-risk entry point for trend continuation.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
FIGS (Figs Inc.)	Long	Showed positive pre-market movement and an 8.5% jump following a positive industry review. Hypothetically exhibiting a high Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) breakout above a key resistance level, indicating strong institutional interest.
MNDR (Mobile-health Network Solutions)	Long	Top pre-market gainer with +189.41%. Illustrates a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) breakout on higher volume, signalling potential for sustained upward movement.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
BTC/USD (Bitcoin Futures)	Short (Watch for confirmation)	Dipped today to $82,400 with high liquidations ahead of US inflation data. Awaiting a 4H 21-EMA breakdown with sustained high selling volume, suggesting a short-term bearish trend continuation.
ETH/USD (Ethereum Futures)	Long/Short (Watch for confirmation)	Assuming high-volume volatility breakout. If it breaks above key resistance on 4H chart with significant volume, long; if it breaks below key support, short.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	Short (Watch for confirmation)	Gold dipped today and pulled back after briefly topping $4,200, with a strengthening dollar. Awaiting rejection from a key Fibonacci extension level on higher timeframe charts, confirming overhead resistance and a potential move lower.
WTI Crude Oil	Long	Surged to a two-week high today due to Middle East tensions. Confirming a break above a significant daily pivot point, targeting the next Fibonacci extension level as geopolitical risks drive prices higher.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Short	Eurozone bond yields were lower today, putting pressure on the Euro. Anticipating continued weakness following a break below a daily pivot point, targeting a short-term Fibonacci retracement level.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Long	With a slightly stronger DXY dollar index and ongoing expectations for Fed rate hikes, maintaining a long position for carry trade potential, looking for continued upward momentum above macro support levels.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 (Put Option)	Short	Nifty 50 opened higher but reversed sharply to close lower. Executing a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy. A decisive break below the 15-minute opening range low warranted buying a Put option for an intraday bearish play.
BankNifty (Call Option)	Long/Short (Watch for confirmation)	BankNifty also closed lower today. Applying the 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy. Would have considered a Call option if it broke above the opening range high, or a Put option if it broke below the low, confirmed by volume. Given the broader market weakness, leaning towards a short if the ORB confirmed a downward move.
