SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US Federal Reserve & Inflation:* Market participants are closely monitoring the July Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) price index and Fed Chair Kevin Warsh's speech at the Jackson Hole symposium this week for fresh clues on the U.S. rate outlook. While the Fed's preferred inflation gauge, core PCE, rose just 0.1% month-on-month after three consecutive 0.3% gains, the annual rate remained well above the Fed's 2% target at 3.3%. The Federal Reserve remains focused on inflation even as employment, retail sales, and GDP momentum soften. Markets are pricing in a 65% probability of a September hold.
- European Central Bank (ECB):* The week includes the release of ECB accounts and France/Spain inflation data. EUR/USD is trading near a three-month high, above 1.1677, following a weaker US Dollar. European markets are performing well, weathering the "Iran war" better than anticipated, with a clearer monetary policy outlook compared to other regions. Negotiated wages in the euro area grew 2.56% in Q2, down from the previous quarter, which may allow the ECB to stay on hold despite inflation at 2.9% in July. Christine Lagarde, ECB chief, has been reportedly described as a "putative candidate" to lead the World Economic Forum in 2027.
- US-Canada Trade Tensions:* Negotiations for a new trade deal between the U.S. and Canada collapsed over the weekend, raising the prospect of an all-out trade war with mutual tariffs being implemented. The U.S. is reportedly set to impose 50% tariffs on nearly $20 billion of Canadian imports.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street Futures & Pre-market Movers:* US equity futures dipped in early trading as concerns about the rising cost of the artificial intelligence boom came into focus. Nasdaq 100 contracts fell 0.2%, while Dow Jones Industrial Average futures and S&P 500 futures edged slightly higher or were flat. This comes after US stocks rose on Friday as investors stabilized after a sharp sell-off in the previous session, supported by easing Treasury yields and a pullback in oil prices.
- Mega-cap US Stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA) & Semiconductors:* Nvidia Corp is scheduled to release its financial results, which the market regards as a crucial window to gauge AI chip demand and infrastructure investment. Some of Nvidia's biggest customers have been told that prices of servers containing its AI chips are going up more than 15% for systems shipped early next year. Alibaba Group Holding Ltd launched a US$10 billion share sale to invest in full-stack AI capabilities, adding to concerns over the sustainability of AI spending.
- European Markets:* European markets are in favor, with the STOXX 600 index near record highs and company earnings exceeding expectations. European equities saw a $2.44 billion inflow in the week to August 12, the largest since February. Battery electric vehicle registrations in Europe continued to rise in July, with BEVs accounting for over 25% of new vehicles sold, driven by strong growth in France and Germany.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Sensex/Nifty Updates:* Indian equity benchmarks extended declines for the second consecutive week, with both the Nifty 50 and Sensex declining 0.7% each last week. The Nifty 50 settled 0.08% higher at 24,252 on Friday, while the Sensex ended 3.11 points higher at 77,540.83. GIFT Nifty signals a muted to positive start for Indian markets today. Analysts expect the benchmark indices to remain largely range-bound with a possibility of a modest recovery.
- Corporate Earnings & Sectoral Momentum:* Nifty 500 companies' earnings jumped 13% in Q1 FY27, or 23% excluding oil marketing companies (OMCs). The banking sector delivered a strong performance, and metals and financials led the quarter. Telecom earnings rose 384%, and metals were up 57% year-on-year. OMCs, however, faced significant pressure from higher crude oil prices, impacting profitability.
- FII/DII Institutional Flows:* Foreign institutional investor (FII) flows will be a key monitorable for market direction. SBI Mutual Fund and HDFC Standard Life Insurance were among the buyers in a recent block deal.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil Catalysts:* Oil prices fell more than $1 a barrel on Monday as investors booked profits ahead of an expected US announcement on additional sanctions against Iran. West Texas Intermediate crude fell 1% on Sunday after settling Friday at $87.06 a barrel, up about 5% on the week, due to the stalemate over the Strait of Hormuz. Persistent geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and elevated global bond yields have weighed on risk appetite.
- Gold Supply/Demand Drivers:* Gold prices surged to a three-month high, with spot gold up 0.7% at $4,636.34 per ounce, driven by investor anticipation for upcoming US inflation data and a weaker U.S. dollar. Gold rose more than 5% last week after the U.S. Treasury's buyback support plan pressured the dollar. Demand from the official sector is strong, with Poland's central bank expanding its gold reserves. Gold is seen regaining popularity among investors amid rising uncertainty and its role as a safe haven.
- Major Crypto Regulatory/Adoption Headlines:* The global cryptocurrency market capitalization reached $2.7 trillion, with an overall surge of 0.9% in the last 24 hours. Bitcoin (BTC) is trading near $77,167.81, down 0.2% in 24 hours, while Ethereum (ETH) is at $2,435.25, up 1.2%. Bitcoin has neared $80,000, advancing roughly 23% last week, driven by US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent's announcement of doubling long-dated bond buybacks. US spot Bitcoin and Ethereum ETFs recorded their strongest inflow week of 2026, pulling in $2.6 billion. Stablecoin payments are surging, with crypto card spending tripling year-over-year to $1.04 billion in July 2026, driven by dollar-backed stablecoins.
