Session Highlight:  London Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Heavily focused on European macroeconomic releases, ECB/BOE news, Forex short-term futures (EUR/USD, GBP/USD), and Gold (XAU/USD) supply/demand zones.

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- ECB Hawkish Stance Amid Inflation Concerns: The European Central Bank (ECB) recently raised its key interest rates by 25 basis points to 2.5%, marking its second hike this year. The main refinancing rate now stands at 2.65%, and the deposit rate at 2.5%. The ECB anticipates inflation will remain well above its 2% target for an extended period, largely due to ongoing conflict in the Middle East fueling inflationary pressures. Growth forecasts for the Eurozone were revised upwards, reflecting unexpected economic resilience. ECB President Christine Lagarde noted that while growth risks are tilted to the downside, inflation risks are tilted to the upside, reiterating a data-dependent, meeting-by-meeting approach.
- Fed Rate Hike Expectations Surge: The Federal Reserve (Fed) held rates steady at 3.50%-3.75% in July. However, market expectations for a Fed rate hike have sharply increased, with futures now pricing in nearly a 60% chance of a quarter-point hike after the September 15-16 FOMC meeting. This follows hotter-than-expected US Producer Price Index (PPI) figures in August, signaling reaccelerating inflation concerns.
- Bank of England Holds, Inflation Risks Persist: The Bank of England (BoE) maintained interest rates at 3.75% in its July meeting, with expectations for rates to remain unchanged at its upcoming September 17, 2026, meeting. However, upcoming key UK economic releases, including employment and August CPI data, could significantly influence future interest rate expectations. BoE Governor Andrew Bailey stated the UK economy is not on the verge of recession, but highlighted that inflation risks remain tilted to the upside.
- Global Bond Yields on the Rise: Financial markets are experiencing a significant surge in bond yields globally. The US Treasury's 10-year bond recently hit a three-year high, and the UK 10-year gilt reached 5.2%. This increase is primarily driven by persistent inflation concerns, the escalating Middle East conflict, and heightened expectations of central bank monetary tightening.

2. US & European Markets

- European Market Mixed Amid ECB and Geopolitical Factors: European stocks are exhibiting mixed performance, with some showing slight gains as oil prices ease, while others remain steady ahead of further ECB decisions. The Euro experienced a slight weakening against the US Dollar following the ECB's recent hawkish rate hike.
- US Market Futures Under Pressure: US stock futures are facing downward pressure, attributed to rising bond yields, continued geopolitical uncertainty in the Middle East, and an increased probability of a Federal Reserve rate hike.
- UK Economy Outperforms: The UK economy unexpectedly grew by 0.4% in July, providing a boost to sentiment, though underlying inflation risks continue to be a concern.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Persistent FII Selling, DII Support: Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) have been net sellers in Indian equities for the fourth consecutive week, offloading approximately ₹17.95 billion last week. In contrast, Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) have continued to provide crucial market support, recording net purchases of ₹64.19 billion, although this amount was lower than the preceding week. This divergence highlights a sustained bearish stance from FIIs, with DIIs absorbing some of the selling pressure.
- Nifty's Fifth Consecutive Weekly Decline: The Nifty index experienced strong selling pressure, leading to its fifth consecutive weekly fall. This decline is largely attributed to surging Brent crude prices, which have remained above $102-$109 a barrel, and heightened global geopolitical uncertainty. The Bank Nifty also saw a decline, while Midcap and Smallcap indices experienced profit booking.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Crude Oil Surges on Middle East Tensions: Crude oil prices have surged significantly, trading above $100-$109 per barrel. This spike is primarily driven by escalating US-Iran tensions, renewed fighting in the Middle East, and attacks on ships in the Strait of Hormuz, causing severe supply disruptions. Saudi Arabia's crude oil production slumped to a two-year low in August 2026, partly due to disruptions to its export routes from US-Iran hostilities. OPEC has revised down its global oil demand growth forecast for 2026 for the fifth consecutive month but increased its projection for 2027.
- Gold Rallies on Inflation Fears: Gold (XAU/USD) rose above $4,390 an ounce, finding support from a weaker US dollar and renewed inflation risks stemming from Middle East tensions. Investors are closely monitoring upcoming US inflation data and Federal Reserve policy cues for further direction.
- Dynamic Crypto Regulatory Landscape: The US crypto regulatory environment remains dynamic. Recent revisions to the CLARITY Act on September 11, 2026, now focus on "non-decentralized finance trading protocols," potentially requiring controlled DeFi platforms to register with the CFTC. The SEC issued SAB 122 to rescind SAB 121, which previously mandated entities to recognize a liability for safeguarding crypto assets. Additionally, states are intensifying enforcement against crypto firms operating without required licenses, and the U.S. Senate has passed the GENIUS Act, stablecoin legislation moving to the House.
- Accelerated Crypto Adoption & Bullish Outlook: Institutional blockchain adoption is accelerating, with Nasdaq investing in Kraken for tokenized-equity infrastructure, Germany's Bundesbank testing ZKsync-based technology, and South Korea advancing an Avalanche-based securities platform. Tether has also expanded stablecoin use into private credit. Bitcoin ETFs are seeing significant inflows, with IBIT emerging as a dominant fund. Billionaire Tim Draper predicts Bitcoin could reach $250,000 within two years, driven by wider adoption and AI integration.

📊 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Reliance Industries (RIL)	LONG	Exhibiting a strong bounce off its 50-day Simple Moving Average on the daily chart, indicating robust underlying support and potential for continued upward momentum.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVIDIA (NVDA)	LONG	Pulled back to its 21-day Exponential Moving Average, which is holding as dynamic support following strong earnings, presenting a buy opportunity for a rebound towards recent highs.
Tesla (TSLA)	SHORT	Experienced a decisive rejection from its 50-day Simple Moving Average after failing to break above this key resistance level, indicating potential for further downside pressure.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Super Micro Computer (SMCI)	LONG	Currently exhibiting a clear Stage-2 Volatility Contraction Pattern (VCP) breakout on significantly increased Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0), suggesting strong institutional accumulation and readiness for a sustained upward move.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	LONG	Consistently holding above its 4-hour 21-EMA, indicating a strong short-term uptrend, with a recent high-volume breakout from a consolidation pattern confirming bullish momentum.
Solana (SOL/USD)	SHORT	Has broken decisively below its 4-hour 21-EMA on increased selling volume, following a failure to overcome a critical resistance level, signaling potential for further declines.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Gold (XAU/USD)	LONG	Showing a strong bounce from the S1 daily pivot point and the 0.618 Fibonacci retracement level on the 4-hour chart, indicating robust support and potential for a move towards the R1 pivot. Current price around $4390.
WTI Crude Oil	SHORT	Experienced a clear rejection from its R2 daily pivot point and the 1.272 Fibonacci extension level, with price previously surging above $100-$109 per barrel. This aligns with recent geopolitical supply concerns being potentially fully priced in, suggesting a short-term reversal.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term (EUR/USD, GBP/USD)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD	LONG	Found strong support around 1.1560 and is showing signs of a reversal towards 1.1641, following a hawkish stance from the ECB and a slightly weaker US Dollar. Current forecasts indicate a potential for upward movement.
GBP/USD	SHORT	Currently trading below its 20-day EMA near 1.3531. Despite unexpected UK GDP growth, persistent inflation risks and potential inaction from the BoE suggest a move towards 1.3400 if it fails to hold support at 1.3475. Short-term forecasts are mixed.

Macro Carry Swings (USD/JPY, AUD/USD)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
USD/JPY	LONG (Carry)	A significant interest rate differential continues to favor the US Dollar, with expectations of further Federal Reserve rate hikes against a comparatively dovish Bank of Japan (BOJ) stance, suggesting sustained upward pressure on the pair over a longer investment horizon.
AUD/USD	SHORT (Carry)	Weakening global commodity prices combined with a relatively less hawkish Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) compared to the Federal Reserve could lead to a sustained downtrend, making it an attractive candidate for a carry trade short position.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 (CALL Option)	LONG	Identified a clear 15-minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) to the upside, indicating strong buying momentum at the market open, triggering an intraday long position via Call options.
BankNifty (PUT Option)	SHORT	Observed a decisive 15-minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) to the downside, signifying initial selling pressure at the market open, triggering an intraday short position via Put options.
