Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US Federal Reserve: Minutes from the September FOMC meeting indicate an 80% likelihood of another rate hike in December, with an October hike less probable (18%). The 10-year Treasury yield is around 5.3%, keeping the opportunity cost for holding gold elevated. The Fed aims to support growth while controlling inflation, and initial jobless claims are closely watched.
- European Central Bank (ECB): ECB policymaker Primoz Dolenc suggested further rate hikes might be necessary due to elevated inflation risks, although timing and scale remain uncertain. Investors have moderated their expectations for ECB hikes, pricing in only two more. Concerns over France's fiscal situation are leading to wider peripheral spreads.
- Bank of England (BoE): Chief Economist Huw Pill emphasized the central banks' focus on combating inflation amid rising global bond yields.
- Reserve Bank of India (RBI): The RBI increased the repo rate by 25 basis points to 5.50% and shifted its policy stance to "calibrated tightening" due to rising oil prices and global monetary tightening. This marks the first rate hike since February 2023. CPI inflation in August stood at 4.82%, with the RBI upgrading its FY27 GDP growth forecast to 7.1%.
- Global Bond Markets: A broad risk-off sentiment has accelerated a global bond selloff, particularly in Europe, driven by persistent inflation and fiscal imbalances.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street Futures: US stock index futures (Dow, S&P 500, Nasdaq 100) are declining in pre-market trading, extending losses from Wednesday. This downturn is attributed to soaring oil prices, high Treasury yields, and persistent inflation concerns.
- Mega-cap Tech/Semiconductors: TSMC reported record Q3 revenue of US$46.71 billion, a 50% year-on-year increase, driven by surging demand for AI applications. Samsung Electronics also forecasted a over 780% leap in Q3 operating profit, buoyed by high memory chip prices and the AI boom. Despite these strong results, global chip stocks, including Nvidia (NVDA), saw slight dips in pre-market trading, raising questions about the broader AI boom impact. Microsoft (MSFT) partnered with Nvidia for its new Surface Laptop Ultra, boosting both stocks earlier in the week. Tesla (TSLA) led the Magnificent 7 rebound after its Q3 delivery report exceeded low expectations.
- US Pre-market Movers: Applied Digital (APLD) rose 3.95% in premarket following stronger-than-expected Q1 financial results.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Market Performance: Indian equity benchmarks opened lower and extended losses today. The Sensex fell over 1,000 points (1.44%) to 71,593.24, and the Nifty 50 declined over 370 points (1.64%) to 22,231.80, hitting a new 52-week low of 22,179.90.
- Key Drivers: The market downturn was fueled by the RBI's repo rate hike, "calibrated tightening" stance, weak global cues, persistently high crude oil prices, and continued selling by Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs).
- Corporate Earnings: TCS reported a 15% YoY rise in Q2 net profit to ₹13,884 crore, with revenue up 11.2% YoY, and declared an interim dividend of ₹12 per share. TCS and other IT stocks (HCLTech, Infosys, Tech Mahindra) showed relative resilience and gains, counteracting the broader market slump. Reliance Industries traded marginally lower, with investors monitoring the potential listing of Jio Platforms.
- FII/DII Flows: FIIs were net sellers on October 7, selling ₹6,121 crore, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) provided support with purchases of ₹4,597 crore. Persistent FII outflows remain a key concern.
- Sectoral Performance: Metal, Realty, and Oil & Gas sectors were among the major underperformers, all closing in the red. Midcap and Smallcap indices also experienced significant selling pressure, declining over 2% each.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Crude Oil: WTI Crude Oil futures surged over 4% (Brent above $104/barrel, WTI above $92/barrel) due to escalating geopolitical tensions in the Middle East, including reports of potential new US strikes on Iran, threats to shipping in the Strait of Hormuz, and hurricane-related production halts in the US Gulf of Mexico. OPEC+ is maintaining production discipline, with voluntary output cuts through March 2026, though the latest geopolitical spike temporarily overrides fundamental rebalancing efforts.
- Gold (XAU/USD): Gold is trading near $4,136, rebounding from the $4,070 support area, but the overall outlook remains mixed. The prospect of a December Fed rate hike and high US Treasury yields (around 5.3%) contribute to near-term bearish pressure. However, strong institutional demand, including significant inflows into gold ETFs and continued buying by the People's Bank of China, provides a long-term floor.
- Crypto: The SEC proposed new crypto custody rules for investment advisers and funds, aiming to create a compliant route for safeguarding digital assets and modernize requirements. The public comment period for Regulation Crypto Assets concludes on October 20. Coinbase is expanding services for traditional financial firms amidst increasing institutional adoption, including USDC custody for Samsung Wallet. Bitcoin was trading lower at $83,059 per coin. The CFTC also proposed a new federal framework for crypto markets.
