Daily Multi-Asset Trading Blueprint & Level Execution Manual

Date: August 9, 2026

Session: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve is facing deepening internal divisions regarding its monetary policy. While the Fed has maintained its target range at 3.50-3.75% since early 2026, three officials voted to raise interest rates at the latest July FOMC meeting due to persistent inflation above the 2% target. Market expectations, according to CME Group's FedWatch tool, anticipate a quarter-percentage-point rate hike in September 2026, followed by another in March 2027. However, recent weak US jobs data (a loss of 23,000 jobs in July, contrary to expectations of an 80,000 gain) has led to waning expectations for a September hike, with markets now placing a 56% chance of rates holding steady. This data has pushed US Treasury yields lower, with the two-year note yield falling to 4.245%.
- The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) held its repo rate unchanged at 5.25%, a widely anticipated move, and upgraded India's GDP growth forecast while lowering its inflation outlook, signaling confidence in the Indian economy despite global uncertainties. The RBI is maintaining a data-dependent approach to future actions.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) and Bank of England (BoE) have kept their policy rates unchanged recently, but both face inflationary pressures. The ECB maintained rates after a 25 basis point hike in June, while the BoE also stood pat but saw widening internal divisions with some members favoring a hike due to soaring energy prices from the Middle East conflict.
- Asian economies are experiencing indirect effects from Middle East developments, with persistent inflationary pressures in Japan keeping expectations for its interest rate path hawkish. The Bank of Japan (BoJ) raised its policy rate to 1% in June and is expected to consider another hike by year-end.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock indexes rallied at the end of the previous week, with the S&P 500 reaching a new historic closing record, and the Nasdaq Composite advancing significantly. This surge was largely driven by an unexpected contraction in July nonfarm payrolls, which reduced immediate fears of further Fed rate hikes. Technology and consumer discretionary sectors outperformed, while financials and energy lagged, indicating a rotation towards growth and AI-driven tech stocks.
- Mega-cap US stocks like NVIDIA (NVDA) and Tesla (TSLA) showed strong performance, with NVIDIA gaining 2.27% on August 9, continuing its weekly run. NVIDIA's leadership in AI chips and strong demand for AI infrastructure are key drivers. Microsoft (MSFT) also saw slight gains. Oracle benefited from an expanded AI partnership and a large Pentagon contract.
- European shares touched an all-time high, with gains in technology stocks and positive corporate earnings reports offsetting unease from the US-Iran war and its impact on energy markets. Semiconductor stocks like BE Semiconductor, Soitec, Aixtron, ASML, and Infineon advanced, driven by an assessment of AI-driven demand.
- Wall Street is seeing a rotation from high-beta AI stocks into defensive sectors, with ETFs like SPY and GLD seeing significant inflows.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian benchmark indices, Nifty 50 and Sensex, extended weekly gains, supported by sustained Foreign Institutional Investor (FII) inflows, positive corporate earnings, and the RBI's decision to hold interest rates steady. The Nifty 50 advanced by about 0.8% and the Sensex by 0.5% for the previous week.
- Despite the broader index pressure, auto and metal sectors showed notable strength, with Nifty Auto being the top-performing sector, gaining 3.14% due to robust July sales. Nifty IT also advanced 2.7% on positive earnings. However, financials experienced a selloff, and sectors like media, capital markets, and realty declined.
- FIIs remained net buyers for the second consecutive week, purchasing equities worth ₹2,887.69 crore, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) invested ₹7,767.37 crore. The rupee strengthened against the US dollar.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil is exhibiting mixed signals. It made a "bear-trap rebound" from below a rising 200-day moving average but its RSI remains below neutral, slightly favoring another support test. Geopolitical tensions, particularly the US-Iran conflict, and potential disruptions to Middle Eastern oil supplies are key drivers for WTI prices. Earlier in July, OPEC+ agreed to a modest production increase of 188,000 barrels per day in August, which had initially led to a decline in crude prices following an interim US-Iran deal. Forecasts for August 2026 suggest WTI could trade within a broad range of $67.93-$106.74. Key resistance levels are identified around $78.42 and $82.67.
- Gold prices experienced a significant rally, advancing nearly 7% over the previous week, with bullion prices reaching $4,414 an ounce. This surge was attributed to easing geopolitical tensions between the US and Iran, a sharp decline in crude oil prices, a weaker US dollar, and expectations of Federal Reserve rate cuts.
- Bitcoin is currently dipping below its 50-day moving average around $63,300, but the broader consolidation remains positive if this average is respected. The immediate objective for Bitcoin is $67,000. The values of flagship digital currencies largely remained flat. Market participants are tracking critical regulatory developments as the crypto-focused Clarity Act is set for a pivotal procedural vote after Congress's August recess.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Screen Nifty leaders using 50-SMA support bounces or 20/50 EMA golden crosses.

| Ticker                                     | Direction | Entry Level                 | Stop Loss    | Target 1      | Target 2  | Strategy & Selection Reason                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------------------------------------|-----------|-----------------------------|--------------|---------------|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Tata Motors (AUTO Sector Leader)           | Long      | ~ Indicative 50-SMA Support | Below 50-SMA | Previous High | Extension | Auto sector is a leading gainer in Indian markets, supported by robust July sales. Looking for a pullback to 50-SMA for support bounce or a golden cross confirmation. |
| Reliance Industries (Energy/ Conglomerate) | Long      | ~ Indicative 20-EMA Support | Below 20-EMA | Previous High | Extension | Identified as a significant wealth creator. Will monitor for 20/50 EMA golden cross or support bounce given its market impact.                                         |

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL): Screen using 21-day EMA pullbacks or 50-day SMA rejection strategy on mega-cap growth leaders.

| Ticker           | Direction | Entry Level                        | Stop Loss        | Target 1               | Target 2                                  | Strategy & Selection Reason                                                                                                                                |
|------------------|-----------|------------------------------------|------------------|------------------------|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| NVIDIA (NVDA)    | Long      | ~ 21-day EMA (if pullback occurs)  | Below 21-day EMA | Recent High ($224.76) | Extension towards 52-week high ($236.54) | Strong performance and AI leadership. Looking for a pullback to the 21-day EMA for a long entry, riding the AI-driven momentum. Current price is $219.50. |
| Tesla (TSLA)     | Long      | ~ 21-day EMA (if pullback occurs)  | Below 21-day EMA | Recent High ($328.58) | Extension                                 | Showed strong gains recently. Similar to NVDA, will monitor for a 21-day EMA pullback as a buying opportunity.                                             |
| Microsoft (MSFT) | Long      | ~ 50-day SMA (if rejection occurs) | Below 50-day SMA | Recent High ($499.99) | Extension                                 | Stable mega-cap with AI-driven cloud demand. A rejection off the 50-day SMA could signal continued upward momentum.                                        |

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY): Screen using Stage-2 VCP or High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) breakouts.

| Ticker        | Direction | Entry Level                                   | Stop Loss            | Target 1  | Target 2  | Strategy & Selection Reason                                                                                                                 |
|---------------|-----------|-----------------------------------------------|----------------------|-----------|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Screen using 4H 21-EMA trend following and high-volume volatility breakouts.

| Ticker         | Direction                 | Entry Level                       | Stop Loss       | Target 1    | Target 2              | Strategy & Selection Reason                                                                                                                                                                |
