📰 SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The European Central Bank (ECB) is widely expected to maintain current policy rates at its October 29 meeting. This decision is influenced by the ongoing French fiscal crisis and rising bond yields, which are already contributing to tighter financial conditions across the Eurozone. A delay in further rate decisions until December, when new economic projections are available, is anticipated.
- The outlook for the US Federal Reserve continues to dominate market sentiment, with investors keenly awaiting clues on its next policy move. Discussions suggest the potential for further interest rate hikes to combat persistent inflation, especially given stronger demand and commodity price pressures extending beyond just oil. A Fed pause on October 28 could offer support to gold prices, whereas another hike would likely sustain pressure on the precious metal.
- Globally, rising bond yields and inflation concerns remain prominent themes, impacting various asset classes.
- Sweden's central bank is actively reconsidering the introduction of an e-krona, driven by the emergence of a digital euro and the growing influence of stablecoins.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock markets experienced a significant downturn in pre-market trading, with Nasdaq 100 futures dropping by approximately 1.5% to 1.8%, and S&P 500 futures declining by 0.8% to 1% overnight. This broad sell-off saw the Nasdaq Composite Index fall over 2% and the Philadelphia Semiconductor Index plunge more than 6%.
- Mega-cap tech stocks were under pressure following earnings reports. Tesla (TSLA) shares fell sharply in pre-market despite beating revenue and adjusted EPS estimates, primarily due to a reduction in its full-year capital expenditure target from $25 billion to $20 billion and a lowered long-range vehicle production target for 2030. Meta Platforms (META) also saw its shares decline in pre-market, despite reporting strong Q3 revenue growth of 26% to $64.6 billion. Investor concerns centered on the company's substantial AI-related spending and a significant legal charge related to a mental health agreement.
- The semiconductor sector broadly declined, with major players like Intel, AMD, Micron, and Nvidia (NVDA) seeing their stocks fall. This weakness is attributed to Tesla's reduced capital expenditure and an "underwhelming" outlook from semiconductor equipment manufacturer Lam Research, which contributed to the drop in the Philadelphia Semiconductor Index. In contrast, Applied Materials (AMAT) demonstrated strong performance in its Semiconductor Systems business for Q3 fiscal 2026, driven by rising demand for advanced AI chips, with a positive outlook for Q4.
- Notable pre-market movers include Biohaven Ltd. (BHVN) as a top gainer (+36.5%), while NVEC (-28.9%) was among the biggest decliners.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity benchmark indices, Sensex and Nifty, concluded Thursday's session lower for the third consecutive day. The Nifty 50 closed below the 22,700 mark and its 20-day moving average, while the Sensex declined by 460 points (~0.6%) to 73,249, and the Nifty fell 124 points to 22,688. The broader market, particularly the midcap index, underperformed significantly, hitting a six-month low. These declines were largely driven by elevated crude oil prices, weak market breadth, and a widespread sell-off across Asian markets.
- The quarterly earnings season is in full swing, with over 50 companies slated to announce their Q2 FY27 results today, including prominent names like Swiggy, Adani Energy Solutions, HPCL, and Havells India. Indian Hotels Company saw its stock rise 4% following a better-than-expected Q2 report. Eternal, the parent company of Zomato and Blinkit, reported a near-doubling of its consolidated net profit for the September quarter to ₹125 crore. Conversely, KEI Industries fell 8% due to a cautious margin outlook, and Oracle Financial Services Software and HPCL also faced downward pressure.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) were net sellers in the Indian cash segment on October 22, 2026, offloading equities worth ₹3,458.70 crore. Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs), however, provided support by being net buyers, purchasing shares worth ₹2,891.32 crore.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil prices surged above $99 per barrel, and Brent Crude traded above $110 per barrel, driven by escalating geopolitical tensions in the Middle East. Reports of drone strikes on Saudi Arabian oilfields and threats to shipping in the Strait of Hormuz have heightened concerns about global supply disruptions. OPEC+ has opted to maintain its September production requirements through November.
- Gold prices experienced a notable decline, falling by 0.6% to $4,115.50 per ounce in early Asian trading and closing at $4059.60 USD/t.oz, down 1.97% on the day. The precious metal remains under pressure from expectations of higher-for-longer interest rates by central banks, particularly the US Federal Reserve, and a strong US dollar.
- In cryptocurrency news, Germany's Sparkassen savings bank network began rolling out direct trading services for Bitcoin, Ether, XRP, Solana, and Polygon within its mobile banking app since October 19, 2026, reaching approximately 50 million customers. This represents a significant step in bank-grade custody and in-app digital asset distribution.
- The US banking regulator, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), issued its final rule on payment stablecoins on October 21, 2026, effective January 18, 2027. This rule prohibits the payment of interest or yield solely for holding a stablecoin. Global stablecoin payments have seen substantial growth, reaching at least $401 billion in the first eight months of 2026, a 42% year-over-year increase.
- A US government-linked wallet transferred approximately $1 billion in Bitcoin, reportedly tied to the Bitfinex hack, to an unknown destination.

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy	Selection Reason
RELIANCE	Large-Cap	50-SMA Support Bounce	As a Nifty heavyweight, Reliance often finds support at its 50-SMA during broader market pullbacks, offering a potential long entry. The current market weakness suggests strong stocks may attract buying at key moving averages.
INDHOTEL	Large-Cap	20/50 EMA Golden Cross Momentum	Indian Hotels Company reported strong Q2 results, leading to a 4% surge yesterday. Continued positive sentiment could drive a golden cross (20 EMA crossing above 50 EMA), indicating upward momentum.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy	Selection Reason
NVDA	Mega-Cap Growth	21-day EMA Pullback / 50-day SMA Rejection	Nvidia shares were down 4% in pre-market due to chip sector concerns. This presents a potential short opportunity if it breaks below its 21-day EMA, or a long opportunity if it finds strong support at the 50-day SMA for a bounce.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy	Selection Reason
BHVN	Mid-Cap Pharma	High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) Breakout	Biohaven Ltd. (BHVN) was the biggest premarket gainer, up 36.5%. This significant surge suggests high relative volume and a potential breakout, warranting a long entry on confirmation of strength.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy	Selection Reason
BTCUSD	Large-Cap	4H 21-EMA Trend Following	Bitcoin is the market leader. A US government transfer of $1B BTC today introduces uncertainty, making 4H 21-EMA trend following a suitable strategy to capture sustained movements.
SOLUSD	Mid-Cap	High-Volume Volatility Breakouts	Solana is highlighted in news about Sparkassen's new crypto trading feature. Increased adoption news can lead to high-volume volatility, presenting breakout trading opportunities.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Asset Type	Strategy	Selection Reason
XAU/USD	Micro Gold Futures	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	Gold is under significant pressure, falling over 1.9% today, due to rising interest rate expectations and a strong USD. Trading around key pivot and Fibonacci extension levels can help identify potential reversal or continuation points.
WTI_CL1!	Micro Crude Oil Futures	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	WTI Crude Oil surged above $99 per barrel due to escalating Middle East tensions. This volatility makes pivot and Fibonacci extension levels crucial for identifying potential resistance/ support and price targets.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Pair Type	Strategy	Selection Reason
EUR/USD	Major Pair	Opening Range Breakout / Range Trading	With the ECB expected to hold rates, EUR/USD might experience initial consolidation before reacting to broader market sentiment. Opening range breakouts or range trading strategies can capitalize on this.
GBP/USD	Major Pair	Trend Following / Support & Resistance	General market volatility and central bank expectations (e.g., Bank of England's stance) will influence Cable. Focus on trend continuation or bounces off key support/resistance.

Macro Carry Swings

Ticker	Pair Type	Strategy	Selection Reason
USD/JPY	Carry Trade	Trend Following (Yield Differential)	The US Fed's hawkish outlook, combined with persistent yield differentials, continues to support carry trades in USD/JPY. Trend following is appropriate given long-term interest rate divergence.
AUD/USD	Commodity/Carry	Trend Following (Commodity Prices / Rate Differentials)	AUD is sensitive to commodity prices and global growth. Monitor for sustained trends based on these factors and the interest rate differential with the USD.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Index	Strategy	Selection Reason
NIFTY50	Nifty 50	15-Minute Opening Range Breakouts (Call for Long, Put for Short)	Nifty 50 has seen significant weakness, falling below its 20-DMA. High volatility is expected at market open, making 15-minute opening range breakouts an effective strategy to capture intraday directional moves.
BANKNIFTY	BankNifty	15-Minute Opening Range Breakouts (Call for Long, Put for Short)	BankNifty often exhibits strong directional moves following market open, especially in volatile conditions. The opening range breakout strategy allows for quick entry based on initial price action and momentum.
