Session Highlight:  New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve maintains a hawkish stance on inflation, with expectations for more interest rate hikes in 2026 and potential delays for cuts until 2027.
- Minutes from the September 15-16, 2026 FOMC meeting indicated that most officials supported a rate hike and another is likely before year-end to combat persistent inflation.
- The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) recently raised its repo rate by 25 basis points to 5.50% and adopted a calibrated tightening stance, raising concerns about liquidity and borrowing costs in India.
- Rising global bond yields continue to be a significant concern, diverting capital from emerging markets.
- The Indian Rupee has shown signs of weakening against the US Dollar.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures for major indices like the S&P 500, Nasdaq 100, and Dow Jones indicate mixed to slightly negative sentiment in pre-market trading.
- European bourses are anticipated to open firmer today, although earlier in the week, European shares experienced declines due to rising oil prices and bond yields.
- Pre-market activity in the US shows gainers such as Fly-E Group, Pacira BioSciences, and The OLB Group, while losers include China SXT Pharmaceuticals and Sunshine Biopharma.
- Concerns over OpenAI's revenue outlook have reportedly eased, contributing to a trimming of losses for SoftBank shares.
- Nvidia-backed Firmus reportedly cancelled a $5 billion Australia IPO amid increasing scrutiny in the AI sector.
- Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) reported Q2 profit that exceeded estimates, driven by an uptick in AI deal flow, leading to its shares rallying over 5%. Infosys and HCL Technologies are also noted as top gainers in the Indian IT sector.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equities are trading sharply higher today, recovering some ground after a significant sell-off on Thursday. The Sensex surged over 1000 points, and the Nifty is trading above 22550.
- This rebound follows a "bloodbath" on Thursday, where the Sensex crashed over 1000 points and the Nifty hit a fresh 52-week low, largely attributed to aggressive selling by Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs), the RBI's hawkish stance, and elevated crude oil prices.
- On Thursday, FIIs were substantial net sellers, offloading ₹129.44 billion in Indian equities, marking their largest single-day outflow since May 2026, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) provided a cushion by buying ₹107.03 billion.
- Market breadth is positive, with a greater number of advancing stocks compared to declines.
- Key support for the Nifty is identified around 22,500-22,550, with immediate resistance anticipated at 22,750-22,850.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil is experiencing catalysts from geopolitical tensions in the Middle East, particularly attacks on shipping in the Strait of Hormuz, and US output cuts, pushing prices towards and at times above $100 per barrel.
- OPEC+ has decided to maintain its November oil production targets unchanged amidst ongoing supply disruptions from regional conflicts involving Iran. Brent crude remains above $100 a barrel.
- Gold prices are advancing, recovering from a two-month low, as retreating oil prices and bond yields alleviate pressure on the non-yielding metal.
- Global gold demand remains robust, particularly from central banks and emerging markets, while overall supply is finite.
- In the cryptocurrency sector, there is an industry push for deeper institutional blockchain adoption before the 2028 US presidential election to solidify sector gains.
- Regulatory news includes Illinois's backing for a delay to a crypto tax rule and ESMA's proposal to end EU custody services for non-compliant stablecoins.
- New SEC crypto rules may pose a threat to small advisers.
- US wealth platforms are restricting access to Bitcoin Exchange-Traded Products (ETPs), which could limit advisor recommendations and hinder broader adoption and capital inflows.
- Greece is reportedly preparing legislation to impose a 10% capital gains tax on cryptocurrencies.
- The US commodities regulator has proposed a federal framework for leveraged crypto trading.

 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
TCS (Tata Consultancy Services)	LONG	Strong Q2 earnings beat and positive outlook, leading to a significant rally of over 5% today (October 9, 2026). The Nifty IT sector is performing strongly. Selected based on a hypothetical 20/50 EMA golden cross or strong bounce from 50-SMA support, aligning with current upward momentum.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
MSFT (Microsoft Corp)	LONG	Despite mixed pre-market sentiment for broader indices, underlying strength in the tech sector, driven by positive AI narratives (e.g., Apple's potential in AI). Assumed to have experienced a 21-day EMA pullback and is showing signs of consolidation or reversal above this level, signaling a potential long entry.
TSLA (Tesla Inc)	SHORT	Lack of specific positive news today and historical volatility. Assumed to have rejected its 50-day SMA on previous attempts to break higher, indicating a potential reversal to the downside or continued bearish pressure.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
FLYE (Fly-E Group Inc)	LONG	Identified as a top pre-market gainer, indicating strong upward momentum and high relative volume. Assumed to be in a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) or experiencing a high relative volume breakout above a key resistance level.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
BTC (Bitcoin)	LONG	While some altcoins are declining, Bitcoin often leads the broader crypto market. Assumed to have executed a high-volume volatility breakout on its 4-hour chart, with price maintaining above the 21-EMA, indicating a short-term bullish trend.
SOL (Solana)	SHORT	Noted as a significant decliner today (-6.05%). Assumed to have broken below its 4-hour 21-EMA on high volume, confirming a short-term downtrend and potential for further downside.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	LONG	Recovering from a two-month low, with easing pressure from retreating oil prices and bond yields. Assumed to have found strong support at a key pivot level and exhibiting signs of a Fibonacci extension upward.
WTI Crude Oil	LONG	Prices remain elevated due to ongoing geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and OPEC+'s decision to maintain production targets. Assumed to be trading near a strong support pivot point or consolidating for a further upside move, given the underlying bullish catalysts.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD	SHORT	Strong US Dollar sentiment driven by a hawkish Federal Reserve and rising US bond yields. European markets have shown volatility. Assumed to be trading below a significant short-term resistance level, indicating bearish momentum.

Macro Carry Swings

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
USD/JPY	LONG	Robust US Dollar strength due to the Federal Reserve's hawkish stance and elevated US Treasury yields, making it an attractive pair for a long-term carry trade. Assumed the Japanese Yen continues to exhibit relative weakness against the USD.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 (Call Option)	LONG	Indian markets are showing a strong rebound today after a significant sell-off yesterday, with positive market breadth. Assumed a clear 15-minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) to the upside, indicating intraday bullish momentum suitable for buying a Call option.
