CURRENT SESSION HIGHLIGHT: 🇺🇸 New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

SESSION NEWS FOCUS: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve maintained its federal funds target range at 3.75%–4.00% on October 28, 2026, matching market expectations. However, the 10-2 vote revealed a division among policymakers, with two members preferring a quarter-percentage-point rate increase, highlighting continuing concerns about inflation.
- Fed Chair Kevin Warsh signaled that policies are showing signs of impact, and the central bank is taking a "wait-and-see" approach, especially ahead of the midterms next week. The FOMC statement upgraded the assessment of economic activity from "solid" to "strong" but reiterated that inflation "remains elevated."
- Globally, central banks may face higher interest rates into 2027 than initially expected due to higher energy prices, the West Asia conflict, and resilient economic growth. Markets are pricing in additional rate hikes across advanced economies.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) is priced to hold rates steady at its October 29 meeting, while the Bank of England (BoE) is highly expected to hike rates at its November 5 meeting. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is anticipated to implement two more quarter-point hikes in December and February, bringing the repo rate to 6%.

2. US & European Markets

- US equities closed higher on Wednesday, with gains in Industrials, Basic Materials, and Technology sectors. Pre-market futures for the S&P 500 and Nasdaq are showing slight gains.
- Microsoft (MSFT) shares jumped 5% in after-hours trading following robust fiscal first-quarter results. The company reported stronger-than-expected earnings per share ($4.89 vs. $4.73 expected) and revenue ($92.28 billion vs. $90.69 billion expected). Azure cloud revenue grew 48% to $33.17 billion, exceeding analyst expectations.
- NVIDIA (NVDA) is facing a U.S. Department of Justice probe regarding its planned $12.93 billion acquisition of Hugging Face. The stock opened at its high on Wednesday but closed down 1%, while other chip stocks like AMD and AVGO saw gains. NVIDIA is scheduled to hold its Q3 fiscal 2027 earnings call on November 17.
- Tesla (TSLA) shares experienced volatility, sliding in morning trading on Wednesday, pulling back to $399.47, but also saw a 2.8% climb on Tuesday following a Barclays upgrade. The stock is still down roughly 17% year-to-date, with third-quarter earnings due on October 21 (past for today's date, but news still relevant for price action). Concerns persist around high AI spending and margin pressure.
- Several pre-market movers are observed, with some smaller cap stocks showing significant percentage gains like ELPW (+39.34%), BRAI (+48.04%), and AIOK (+30.85%).

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity benchmarks opened higher on Thursday, driven by the US Federal Reserve's decision to hold interest rates steady, but elevated oil prices kept investors cautious.
- The Sensex jumped over 600 points, surpassing the 73,860 mark, while the Nifty 50 gained 175 points, nearing 22,875. Broader markets, including Nifty Smallcap 100 and Nifty Midcap 100, also saw gains of up to 0.6%.
- Top gainers on the Sensex included Adani Ports (up over 4%), Power Grid, Kotak Mahindra Bank, HUL, NTPC, ITC, Reliance Industries, Titan, TCS, and Infosys. Nifty FMCG rose over 1.5%.
- Jio Platforms is drawing bullish bets, with analysts seeing up to 28% upside potential after its recent strong D-Street debut, with its market cap topping Rs 13.5 lakh crore.
- The rupee opened 5 paise stronger against the US dollar at 95.17, compared to Wednesday's close of 95.22. Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPIs) have withdrawn ₹48,056 crore from equities in October so far, amid elevated crude oil prices.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil prices remain elevated, trading near $114, driven by concerns of oil supply in the Middle East and potential fresh Iran strikes after the midterms. Higher energy costs are contributing to inflation risks globally.
- Gold (XAU/USD) continued to pull back on Thursday, trading lower near $4025, down approximately 1% on the day, despite the Fed holding rates steady. The US Dollar regaining positive traction after the post-FOMC slide is weighing on gold. The upcoming September PCE data release is expected to determine gold's short-term direction. Key support levels are at $4,000–$3,980, with resistance at $4,080.
- Bitcoin (BTC), Ethereum (ETH), and XRP experienced a slide on October 29 after an initial rebound post-Fed decision faded. Bitcoin was trading near $79,732, Ethereum at $2,303, and XRP at $1.29, representing 24-hour declines. The reversal suggests that the expected rate hold was not enough to sustain buying interest.
- Despite the pullback, institutional demand for spot Bitcoin Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) showed signs of a comeback, with $442.67 million in net inflows through Thursday.
- Other altcoins like CRV, NEAR, and RENDER saw volatility amidst broader market risk-off sentiment, while Quant (QNT) surged 7.16% on institutional partnership news. XRP showed a signal seen before a 72% rally, following Ripple's U.S. trust-bank approval and expanding partnerships.
