CURRENT SESSION HIGHLIGHT: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

SESSION NEWS FOCUS: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Federal Reserve delivered a hawkish hold at its June 2026 FOMC meeting, with Chair Kevin Warsh signaling a stronger data-dependent policy framework. Traders have increased rate hike bets across the board as oil prices surged, leading to a 64% probability of no change at the next meeting, but markets are pricing in potential rate hikes by year-end.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) kept interest rates unchanged in July but President Christine Lagarde signaled a potential move in September, backed by new quarterly staff forecasts and inflation prints. Core price growth is anticipated to remain above the ECB's 2% target through 2028, fueling inflation concerns.
- Global inflation pressures remain sticky, exacerbated by elevated crude oil prices and ongoing geopolitical tensions. The UK's headline CPI inflation rate fell to 2.6% in June, compared with 2.8% in May.
- Geopolitical tensions from the US-Iran conflict continue to weigh on global markets, impacting oil prices and creating caution across asset classes.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street futures are showing mixed signals in pre-market trading, with some recovery in chip stocks noted recently, but caution persists ahead of a crucial week of Big Tech earnings. The Nasdaq 100 had previously surged 3% after a US-Iran ceasefire framework agreement.
- Mega-cap tech earnings are a key focus for the week, with reports due from companies like Alphabet and Tesla. Investors will be scrutinizing whether multi-billion dollar AI investments are paying off, especially after Alphabet faced scrutiny over a delayed AI model launch.
- Semiconductor stocks experienced a rebound after a recent sell-off, but volatility in heavyweight semiconductor shares has dented risk appetite. Intel saw a decline despite strong revenue growth, reflecting ongoing concerns regarding AI-related capital spending.
- AI-driven rally momentum has faltered slightly, with last week's selloff raising concerns that the market had run too far.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equities (Nifty 50 and Sensex) experienced their worst weekly performance in four months, declining about 2.3% and 2.7% respectively, extending losses for a fifth consecutive session. This was primarily driven by rising oil prices, persistent FII outflows, and escalating geopolitical tensions.
- FII outflows continue to put pressure on Indian markets, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) have been active buyers.
- Corporate earnings are in focus, with IDFC First Bank reporting its highest-ever quarterly profit. Over 110 companies are set to turn ex-date this week for dividends and bonus issues.
- Broader markets including the Nifty Midcap 100 and Nifty Smallcap 100 also remained under pressure, extending losses for a second consecutive week.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil prices remain elevated, hovering near six-week highs, largely due to escalating geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and concerns over disruptions to key shipping routes like the Strait of Hormuz. OPEC+ plans an output increase, but market caution is high due to production shortfalls.
- Gold (XAU/USD) futures are stabilizing around $4,150, influenced by geopolitical tensions and rising crude oil prices. High bond yields and a cautious central bank stance are limiting short-term gains, despite strong safe-haven demand.
- Bitcoin recently climbed above $66,000, supported by softer inflation data, rising ETF demand, and geopolitical conditions. However, the surge in crude oil prices is heightening macro volatility that could spill over into crypto markets.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

1. INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Sector	Strategy & Selection Reason
Reliance Industries Ltd (RELIANCE.NS)	Diversified	Showing strong support bounce near its 50-SMA on daily charts, indicating potential for continued upward momentum following broader market correction.
ICICI Bank (ICICIBANK.NS)	Financials	Experienced a 20/50 EMA golden cross recently, suggesting a bullish trend initiation, coupled with robust Q1 earnings reports from peer banks.
Tata Motors (TATAMOTORS.NS)	Automotive	Consolidating above its 50-SMA with improving delivery volumes, indicating accumulation and a potential breakout if broader market sentiment improves.

2. US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Sector	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVIDIA (NVDA)	Semiconductors	Watching for a 21-day EMA pullback entry. Despite recent volatility, AI infrastructure demand remains strong, making any dip a potential buying opportunity.
Microsoft (MSFT)	Software	Monitoring for a 50-day SMA rejection strategy for a potential short, especially if upcoming earnings show any weakness in AI monetization or cloud growth.
Tesla (TSLA)	Automotive	Bi-directional play: Long on a successful 21-day EMA support bounce after recent dips; Short on clear rejection of 50-day SMA if macro headwinds persist. Upcoming earnings are key.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Sector	Strategy & Selection Reason
Roku Inc. (ROKU)	Consumer Electronics	Exhibiting a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) on the daily chart with tightening price action, indicating potential for an upside breakout.
Palantir Technologies (PLTR)	Software	High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) breakout candidate, showing strong institutional interest and upward price momentum on significant volume.

3. CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Category	Strategy & Selection Reason
Bitcoin (BTC/USD)	Large-Cap Crypto	Following the 4H 21-EMA trend. Recent price action above $66,000 indicates upward momentum, with potential for long trades on pullbacks to the EMA.
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	Large-Cap Crypto	Watching for high-volume volatility breakouts. A move above key resistance levels on strong volume could signal a long entry; a breakdown below support on high volume, a short.

4. COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Commodity	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	Precious Metal	Trading around key Pivot levels ($4,150). Long on bounces from support pivots with Fibonacci extension targets; short on rejection of resistance pivots.
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	Energy	Elevated due to geopolitical risks. Using Fibonacci extension levels for potential upside targets if tensions escalate, and pivot rejections for short opportunities on any de-escalation news.

5. FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Currency Pair	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD	Euro/US Dollar	Monitoring for breakouts from short-term consolidation zones. Long on upside breakouts if ECB hawkishness outweighs Fed, short on downside.
GBP/USD	British Pound/US Dollar	Trading around recent highs. Bi-directional based on immediate economic data (e.g., UK inflation) and relative central bank stance (BoE vs. Fed).

Long-Term Carry Swing

Ticker	Currency Pair	Strategy & Selection Reason
USD/JPY	US Dollar/Japanese Yen	Long-term carry trade due to persistent interest rate differential between the US and Japan. Monitoring for sustained breaks above key resistance (e.g., 165.00) for swing entries.
AUD/USD	Australian Dollar/US Dollar	Watching for carry opportunities based on RBA's hawkish stance (71% probability of rate hike) relative to the Fed. Long on strong RBA signals.

6. INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Index	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 Options	Nifty 50	Implementing a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout strategy. Buy Call options if Nifty breaks above the opening range high; Buy Put options if it breaks below the opening range low.
BankNifty Options	BankNifty	Applying a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout strategy. Buy Call options if BankNifty breaks above the opening range high; Buy Put options if it breaks below the opening range low.
