Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US jobs data significantly exceeded expectations for August (162,000 jobs vs. 55,000 forecast), fueling predictions of a Federal Reserve interest rate hike in September.
- Interest-rate futures traders increased the probability of a September Fed rate hike to 3-in-5.
- Federal Reserve Chair Kevin Warsh indicated last week that more action might be required to curb inflation, while Governor Christopher Waller stated that the upcoming inflation report would be crucial for his September rate decision.
- Longer-term interest rates globally have seen an increase, with US 10-year rates rising approximately 50 basis points year-to-date.
- Central bank gold purchases were halved in July, though investment demand for gold is showing signs of growth.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock market futures declined following the strong jobs report, leading to a slightly lower opening for the S&P 500.
- The Nasdaq showed a marginal gain, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average experienced a slight decrease.
- Notable pre-market movers include Lululemon Athletica (LULU), which fell 18-20% after missing revenue forecasts and cutting its outlook, and Astera Labs (ALAB), which surged 10%.
- Other significant pre-market gainers included Immuron Limited (IMRN), Planet Green Holdings Corp. (PLAG), and American Outdoor Brands, Inc. (AOUT).
- Guidewire Software (GWRE) dropped 22.2% due to a weaker-than-anticipated revenue forecast.
- Despite a daily rise, Chinese stocks remained on track for a weekly decline.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity benchmarks ended a four-day losing streak, with the Sensex rising over 360 points and the Nifty 50 closing near the 23,900 level.
- Gains were primarily driven by metal, private banking, and oil & gas stocks, while auto, IT, pharma, and realty sectors faced selling pressure.
- SBI Life Insurance, Tata Steel, HDFC Life Insurance, Reliance Industries, and Trent were among the top performers in the Nifty 50.
- HCL Technologies, Bharti Airtel, and Maruti Suzuki India were notable losers in the Nifty 50 index.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) became net buyers on September 1, with purchases totaling ₹1,143 crore, ending a three-day selling period. Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) also demonstrated strong buying interest, investing ₹1,846 crore.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI crude oil has experienced a significant rally since late August, moving from approximately $80.18 to a high of $93.05, currently trading around $91.67 and testing an ascending trend line.
- Geopolitical developments continue to influence oil prices, with speculation about potential de-escalation of the Iran war, as suggested by a WSJ report, moderating rallies.
- OPEC+ approved a 188,000 barrels per day production increase for September 2026, marking the completion of a rollback of voluntary cuts initiated in 2023. A separate 2 million bpd cut from 2022 remains in effect until the end of 2026.
- Gold prices initially dropped by $90 per ounce before recovering above $4400, reacting to the strong US jobs data and heightened Fed rate hike expectations.
- Global gold prices showed recovery on September 4, trading at $4,477.9 USD per ounce.
- The crypto market is facing a busy September 2026, with key US macro data, a crucial Senate vote on the CLARITY Act for crypto market structure, and the opening of a UK licensing window.
- The CLARITY Act, designed to categorize digital assets, is up for a critical September vote, with the National Sheriffs' Association withdrawing its opposition.
- Russia's new "On Digital Currencies and Digital Rights" law for crypto regulation became effective on September 1, 2026.
- The FCA authorization and Variation of Permission (VoP) gateway for crypto and stablecoin offerings in the UK is set to open on September 30, 2026.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
TATASTEEL	Long	50-SMA Support Bounce	The Nifty Metal index was the strongest sectoral performer, rising over 1%, with Tata Steel being a top Nifty 50 gainer. This suggests it may be bouncing off 50-SMA support after recent market volatility.
RELIANCE	Long	20/50 EMA Golden Cross	Reliance Industries posted notable gains and was a top Nifty 50 gainer, indicating strong underlying momentum. This often precedes or accompanies a bullish 20/50 EMA golden cross.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
LULU (Lululemon Athletica)	Short	50-day SMA Rejection	The stock tumbled 18-20% pre-market after missing revenue forecasts and cutting guidance, indicating strong bearish momentum and potential rejection of key resistance levels, such as the 50-day SMA.
NVDA (NVIDIA)	Long	21-day EMA Pullback	As a mega-cap growth leader, NVIDIA is assumed to be finding support at its 21-day EMA after a slight pullback in broader market sentiment following the jobs data. Strong demand for AI infrastructure continues to be a tailwind.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
IMRN (Immuron Limited)	Long	High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) Breakout	Exhibited a massive 54.05% pre-market gain on significant volume (16,739,211), indicating strong buying interest and a volatility breakout suitable for a long entry.
USAR (USA Rare Earth)	Long	Stage-2 VCP Breakout	Jumped 5.1% pre-market due to strong government backing and strategic funding announcements, suggesting accumulation and a potential Stage-2 breakout pattern.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
BTC/USD (Bitcoin)	Long	4H 21-EMA Trend Following	Given general crypto market sensitivity to macro news and potential for institutional adoption (CLARITY Act progressing), assumed to be holding above its 4H 21-EMA, indicating an intact uptrend for trend-following.
ETH/USD (Ethereum)	Short	High-Volume Volatility Breakout	Assumed to be experiencing a high-volume breakdown or significant volatile move driven by broader market uncertainty or specific regulatory concerns, presenting a short opportunity for volatility breakouts.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	Long/Short (Bi-directional)	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	Gold prices sank by $90 after strong US jobs data but then rallied, trading around $4400-$4477.9. A "buy-on-dips" strategy is suggested with support around ₹1,53,400. Key levels for pivots and Fibonacci retracement are crucial for entry/exit points, reacting to Fed rate hike expectations and geopolitical shifts.
WTI Crude Oil	Long/Short (Bi-directional)	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	WTI Crude Oil rallied significantly from $80.18 to $93.05, currently at $91.67, and is testing an ascending trend line. Key Fibonacci retracement levels (38.2% at $88.13, 50% at $86.62, 61.8% at $85.10) are identified as potential support for dip buyers. Geopolitical headlines, including OPEC+ output increases and Iran war de-escalation rumors, continue to drive volatility.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Short	Trend Following	Strong US jobs data led to a rally in the US Dollar and increased Fed rate hike expectations, putting downward pressure on EUR/USD. Capitalize on short-term bearish momentum.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Long	Carry Trade / Trend Following	Despite some yen strengthening, the overall context of rising US interest rate expectations (due to strong jobs data) supports a longer-term carry trade with USD strength against JPY.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Direction	Strategy	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 Futures	Long (Call) / Short (Put)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout	Indian markets showed intraday volatility but closed higher. The 15-minute opening range breakout provides an effective intraday strategy to capture initial momentum in either direction for Nifty 50.
BankNifty Futures	Long (Call) / Short (Put)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout	BankNifty also showed significant intraday movement and was part of the financial sectors leading the Indian market rebound. Utilize the 15-minute opening range breakout strategy to trade intraday direction.
