SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The European Central Bank (ECB) is widely expected to raise interest rates in September to 2.50% from 2.25% to counter inflationary pressures, primarily stemming from the ongoing Middle East conflict and rising energy costs.
- Despite the anticipated September hike, ECB policymakers reportedly have little appetite to signal further tightening beyond that point, with long-term inflation expectations remaining anchored around the 2% target.
- The US Federal Reserve is largely expected to maintain current interest rates through 2026, with any easing pushed back to early 2027, despite some hawkish tensions and recent weaker economic data such as negative nonfarm payrolls and retail sales growth in July.
- A stronger euro-zone economy poses upside risks to inflation.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street rebounded on Tuesday, driven by strong performance in technology stocks, ahead of today's US trading session where futures are showing lower.
- The global semiconductor revenue is projected to reach $1.6 trillion in 2026, marking a 92% increase from 2025, largely propelled by sustained investment in AI infrastructure and a robust memory pricing cycle.
- While the semiconductor sector experienced a significant pullback earlier in 2026, demand remains strong, particularly for AI chips and high-bandwidth memory.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity benchmarks, Sensex and Nifty, opened in the green on Wednesday, supported by positive global cues and a notable fall in crude oil prices.
- The Nifty SmallCap 100 is currently trading near its 52-week high, indicating strength in the broader market.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) turned net buyers on August 25, 2026, with inflows of ₹1,181 crore, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) continued their buying streak, injecting ₹2,493 crore into the cash market. This combined institutional activity provided a buffer against global volatility.
- PSU Bank shares showed strong gains, with the Nifty PSU Bank index rising 1%, outperforming other sectors.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Crude oil prices fell by approximately 2% today, extending losses from the previous session, on renewed hopes that ongoing talks between Iran and Oman could lead to the reopening of the Strait of Hormuz and ease supply concerns. Brent crude futures are trading near $85-$86 a barrel.
- OPEC+ increased its August production quotas by 188,000 barrels per day.
- Gold (XAU/USD) is currently consolidating around $4,643 per ounce, showing a short-term bullish structure within a descending channel/wedge pattern. Institutional demand for gold-backed ETFs is strengthening, with significant inflows reported this week.
- Bitcoin (BTC) recently broke above $69,000, and Ethereum (ETH) climbed above $2,100, contributing to a total cryptocurrency market capitalization exceeding $2.3 trillion earlier in August.
- The SEC proposed "Regulation Crypto Assets" on August 18, 2026, introducing a tailored offering and reporting regime for certain crypto assets. American banking associations have formed the "BankChain Alliance" to build their own blockchain network for stablecoins, tokenized deposits, and automated settlements.
