Current Session Highlight:  New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The US Dollar Index (DXY) is holding above 99.00, driven by stronger-than-expected Producer Price Index (PPI) data and rising Treasury yields, increasing global focus on US inflation ahead of today's CPI release.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) has delivered a hawkish policy update, indicating further interest rate hikes are likely this year to combat elevated inflation, even as the Euro initially weakened against the US Dollar due to broad dollar strength.
- The Bank of Japan (BoJ) is anticipated to raise rates next week, with the yen already near multi-month highs, potentially narrowing the carry gap with other currencies.
- The BRICS Summit in New Delhi is ongoing, with India hosting leaders including Xi Jinping and Vladimir Putin, aiming to unify the expanded group and reduce dollar dependence through local currency trade.
- The Bank of England/Savanta Inflation Attitudes Survey for August 2026 has been released, with inflation perceptions at 5.0%.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are mixed, but markets remain on edge. The S&P 500 lost 0.6% and the Nasdaq 100 fell 1.1% in the previous session, extending a losing streak, with September living up to its reputation for poor stock market performance.
- The upcoming US Consumer Price Index (CPI) data for August, due to be released at 12:30 GMT (8:30 AM ET) today, is a critical market-moving event that could determine the Federal Reserve's stance on interest rates at its upcoming meeting. The consensus is for headline inflation to remain steady at 3.4% YoY.
- Pre-market activity shows a decline in major US indices: S&P500 (-0.58%), Nasdaq 100 (-1.25%), and Dow Jones (-0.34%).
- Mega-cap US stocks like Oracle are showing gains in after-hours trading following AI-driven quarterly results. Microsoft plans to more than triple its data center capacity, indicating strong AI infrastructure investment.
- However, Robinhood is down 2.5% and Adobe is down 2% in pre-market trading following their quarterly results.
- Yields on US Treasuries are heading towards 5%, with the probability of a Fed rate hike next Wednesday climbing from 61% to 72% after higher-than-expected PPI data.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian benchmark indices opened sharply lower on Friday, with Sensex falling over 650 points (0.91%) to 74,217.65 and Nifty 50 declining over 220 points (0.95%) to 23,255.90, amid rising crude prices and global headwinds.
- The Rupee opened 0.26% lower at Rs 95.69 per US dollar as crude prices topped $107 per barrel.
- Despite the broader sell-off, some IT stocks showed resilience, with Tech Mahindra (+1.45%) and Infosys (+1.09%) leading the gainers on BSE Sensex. ITC (+0.54%) also advanced.
- FII/DII institutional flows remain a curious case, with both entering and leaving Indian stock markets.
- India is preparing to host the BRICS Summit, with discussions on increasing intra-BRICS trade and reducing dollar dependence.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil slid to around $101 per barrel on Friday, down 2.30% in early trading, in a likely technical correction, but is still set to end the week sharply higher due to escalating conflict between the US and Iran. The price had recently surged above $104.93, reaching four-month highs, driven by Middle East tensions.
- OPEC has revised its 2026 global oil demand growth projection downward from 580,000 barrels per day to 380,000 bpd, citing structural demand weakness in major Asian consumption hubs.
- Gold prices continued to decline yesterday and have approached a second sell target near 4,282, influenced by a short-term corrective downtrend and negative signals from relative strength indicators. Gold is weathering violent rates moves ahead of the US CPI.
- Bitcoin is trading around 77103.72. (No specific major crypto regulatory/adoption headlines were found for today's session from the provided search results).

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Tech Mahindra (NSE: TECHM)	₹1,525.80	Long	Nifty Leader showing strength despite broader market weakness, indicating potential 50-SMA support bounce or early stage 20/50 EMA golden cross.
Infosys (NSE: INFY)	₹1,670.00 (estimate)	Long	Nifty Leader, similar to Tech Mahindra, displaying relative strength and outperformance in a declining market. Likely holding 50-SMA support or forming a 20/50 EMA golden cross.
ITC (NSE: ITC)	₹450.00 (estimate)	Long	Showed positive movement (+0.54%) in early trading despite overall market decline, suggesting underlying strength near 50-SMA support.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVIDIA (NASDAQ: NVDA)	$1,200.00 (estimate)	Long/Short (Neutral, watch for catalysts)	Mega-cap growth leader. News focus on AI trade; however, overall Nasdaq 100 is down. Will monitor for 21-day EMA pullback entry for long, or 50-day SMA rejection for short if pre-market weakness persists or CPI disappoints.
Microsoft (NASDAQ: MSFT)	$450.00 (estimate)	Long/Short (Neutral, watch for catalysts)	Mega-cap growth leader with news of tripling data center capacity, indicating strong fundamental demand. Will apply 21-day EMA pullback for long, or 50-day SMA rejection for short, similar to NVDA.
Tesla (NASDAQ: TSLA)	$250.00 (estimate)	Long/Short (Neutral, watch for catalysts)	Mega-cap growth leader, often volatile. Will monitor for key technical levels related to 21-day EMA pullbacks for potential long entries, or 50-day SMA rejection if negative news or broader market sentiment pushes it lower.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Tenon Medical, Inc. (NASDAQ: TNON)	$4.15	Long	Pre-market gainer (+70.08%). Will monitor for Stage-2 VCP breakout confirmation on higher relative volume (RVOL > 2.0).
ACV Auctions Inc. (NASDAQ: ACVA)	$10.35	Long	Pre-market gainer (+43.35%). Will monitor for Stage-2 VCP breakout confirmation on higher relative volume (RVOL > 2.0).

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Bitcoin (BTC/USD)	$77,103.72	Long/Short (Neutral, waiting for confirmation)	Currently trading around $77,103.72. Will apply 4H 21-EMA trend following. If price breaks above 4H 21-EMA on high volume, consider long. If it rejects 4H 21-EMA or breaks below on high volume, consider short.
(No other specific high-volume volatility breakouts identified from search results for today for other major cryptos)

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
Gold (XAU/USD)	$4,282 (sell target)	Short	Gold prices continue to decline, nearing the second sell target. Current technicals suggest a short-term corrective downtrend, trading below the EMA50, and relative strength indicators showing negative signals. Look for entry at or near previous resistance/pivot levels for short.
WTI Crude Oil (USOIL)	$101.19	Long (on pullback)/ Short (on rejection)	Currently undergoing a technical correction after a strong rally. The 38.2% Fibonacci retracement at $101.35 and 50% level at $100.25 are potential support zones. Overall trend remains bullish (100 SMA above 200 SMA). Consider long on shallow pullback to Fib cluster around $100.25-$101.35 for a bounce towards $104.93, or short if price rejects these levels and breaks below ascending trend line/61.8% Fib at $99.14.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD	1.1603	Short (after reaching target, watching for downtrend)	After reaching its first buy target, the euro has started to decline and has broken a main bullish trend line and EMA50 support, signaling a shift towards a short-term downtrend. Consider short positions if price consolidates below key support B of 1.1585-1.1572.
GBP/USD	1.3522	Neutral/Short (if 55 D EMA breaks)	Intraday bias is neutral. Sustained break of the 55-day EMA (around 1.3484) would indicate the completion of a rebound, leading to deeper falls towards 1.3272. On the upside, a break of 1.3601 could resume the rally.

Macro Carry Swings

Ticker	Price (approx.)	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
USD/JPY	154.17	Short (with caution for reversal)	Yen strength is in motion, with USD/JPY below 155.21 support and below 50/100-day EMAs. A likely BoJ hike next week narrows the carry gap. However, a bullish engulfing candle on Thursday warns of reversal risk, especially if US CPI is less hawkish than feared. Consider short below 154.45, targeting 152.
AUD/USD	0.7174	Short (due to trend shift)	AUD/USD settled with sharp losses, breaking below EMA50 support and a main bullish trend line, signaling a shift to a corrective bearish trend. Positioning has shifted from bullish to bearish following higher US PPI data.
