Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- Fed Chair Kevin Warsh delivered a hawkish address at the Jackson Hole symposium on Friday, August 28, 2026, indicating that inflation remains the "predominant focus" and declining to provide explicit rate-path guidance, which led markets to reprice September hike odds to around 60%.
- The US Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) price index rose 0.2% in July from the previous month, with the annual rate at 3.7%, above expectations, while core PCE printed 3.3% for the second consecutive month, showing no significant progress on the Fed's preferred inflation gauge.
- The Bank of Korea hiked interest rates by 25 basis points to 3.00% in a 6-1 vote, marking its second consecutive increase, while Hungary's MNB cut rates by 25 basis points to 5.50%.
- The US Dollar saw an upside correction after Warsh's hawkish comments, resolving previous over-extended momentum indicators.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock index futures were mixed to slightly lower in pre-market trading, with Nasdaq 100 E-minis down, as investors digested economic data and the implications of Fed Chair Warsh's comments.
- On Friday, August 28, the S&P 500 closed down 0.25% at 7,711.76, the Dow Jones Industrial Average shed 0.02%, and the Nasdaq Composite slid 0.52%, with semiconductor stocks giving back some of their gains after Nvidia's strong earnings rally.
- Nvidia (NVDA) experienced a 3.09% drop on Friday, August 28, trimming its significant surge from Thursday's blowout second-quarter earnings report, which had reinforced optimism around sustained AI-related investments.
- Memory is projected to account for 54% of the $1.56 trillion semiconductor market in 2026, highlighting its transformation into critical AI infrastructure, with Nvidia doubling its memory supply commitments to $279 billion across fiscal years 2027-2029.
- NXP Semiconductors (NXPI) announced an interim dividend payment for the third quarter of 2026, reflecting the company's strong capital structure and confidence in long-term growth.
- Navitas Semiconductor (NVTX) saw an 8.15% decline on August 28, after initially ticking up on news of its acquisition of Claros, a startup focused on power delivery for next-generation AI processors.
- Pre-market movers for US stocks show various gainers and losers, including FingerMotion Inc. (FNMR) and Anika Therapeutics Inc. (ANIK) among gainers, and BioXcel Therapeutics (BTX) and Kaixin Holdings (KXIN) among losers.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian benchmark equity indices Sensex and Nifty rebounded on Friday, August 28, after two days of losses, driven by strong buying in blue-chip IT stocks and supportive global cues.
- The Sensex climbed 330.92 points (0.43%) to settle at 77,264.51, and the Nifty settled 84.80 points (0.35%) higher at 24,175.65.
- Major winners in the Sensex firms included Tata Consultancy Services, Infosys, Tech Mahindra, HCL Tech, Titan, and Eternal, with the Nifty IT index surging 3.5%.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) were net sellers on August 28, offloading equities worth ₹5,039.80 crore, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) were net buyers, purchasing ₹5,183.93 crore.
- FIIs have been net sellers over the past month, while DIIs have shown strong confidence with significant buying activity.
- Companies like Setco Automotive, Winsome Yarns, and Supreme Engineering are scheduled to announce their quarterly results on August 29, 2026.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil settled at $83.40 a barrel and Brent crude futures at $89.31 a barrel on Friday, August 28, marking weekly declines of over 4% and 5% respectively, influenced by hints from the US Federal Reserve on inflation policy and rumors of a potential agreement on shipping through the Strait of Hormuz.
- The Strait of Hormuz has been disrupted since January 2026, impacting over 17 million bpd of crude flows and contributing to elevated oil benchmarks, although OPEC and the IEA have cut 2026 demand forecasts due to demand destruction.
- OPEC+ agreed to increase oil production quotas by 188,000 bpd for August 2026, continuing phased hikes amid geopolitical volatility.
- August 2026 saw Bitcoin surge past $77,000, driven by renewed investor optimism and pivotal regulatory developments, including President Trump's push for the Clarity Act.
- The SEC proposed a framework allowing crypto projects to raise up to $75 million annually through public token sales without full securities registration, though the crypto market has largely shifted to other capital formation mechanisms.
- Regulation, stablecoin adoption, institutional participation, and tokenization are among the significant trends shaping the crypto exchange industry in 2026, with the EU's MiCA framework and clearer US crypto rules becoming more structured.
- US Bitcoin ETFs recorded approximately $650 million in net inflows during August, with one week seeing $2.6 billion, the strongest inflow week since October.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
TCS (Tata Consultancy Services)	2342.00	50-SMA Support Bounce / 20/50 EMA Golden Cross	TCS was a major winner in Friday's Indian market rebound, with the Nifty IT index surging. It recently crossed above its 100-day SMA. The strong performance of IT stocks, supported by Nvidia's earnings, suggests potential for continued upward momentum or consolidation around key moving averages.
Infosys (INFY)	1144.00	50-SMA Support Bounce / 20/50 EMA Golden Cross	Similar to TCS, Infosys was a key driver in the Indian IT sector's rally, contributing to the Nifty's rebound. Positive global cues for the tech sector reinforce potential for further gains or strong support levels.
Tech Mahindra (TECHM)	1640.90	50-SMA Support Bounce / 20/50 EMA Golden Cross	Tech Mahindra was also among the top performers in the IT rally on August 28. Its strong positive movement aligns with the overall bullish sentiment in Indian IT, making it a candidate for a support bounce or continued uptrend.
Titan Company (TITAN)	5169.20	50-SMA Support Bounce	Titan was a major winner in Friday's Sensex rally. This indicates strong underlying buying interest which could lead to a bounce off support levels after any minor corrections.
Lenskart Solutions (NSEI:LENSKART)	(Not Available)	50-SMA Support Bounce	Highlighted as a founder-led company with strong Q1 FY2026 results (revenue ₹27,826.6 million, net income ₹2,218.4 million), suggesting potential for growth and investor interest which could manifest as support at moving averages.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
Nvidia (NVDA)	(Not Available)	21-day EMA Pullback / 50-day SMA Rejection	NVDA saw a significant rally then a pullback after its Q2 earnings beat, indicating high volatility. A 21-day EMA pullback could offer a long entry point if the underlying AI demand remains strong, or a 50-day SMA rejection could signal a short opportunity if momentum fades.
Microsoft (MSFT)	(Not Available)	21-day EMA Pullback	Mega-cap tech leader, likely to follow general market trends influenced by Fed news. A pullback to the 21-day EMA could represent a healthy correction and a buying opportunity in a generally strong tech environment.
Tesla (TSLA)	(Not Available)	50-day SMA Rejection	High-volatility mega-cap stock, sensitive to market sentiment and news. A rejection from the 50-day SMA could indicate a continuation of a short-term downtrend or a struggle to break higher.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
Direct Digital Holdings, Inc. (DRCT)	(Not Available)	High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) Breakout	Listed as a top pre-market gainer, indicating strong initial buying interest and high relative volume. A breakout on high volume could signal a continuation of this upward movement.
REGENXBIO Inc. (RGNX)	(Not Available)	Stage-2 VCP Breakout	Identified as a pre-market mover. Potential for a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) breakout implies institutional accumulation and a tight base before a significant price advance.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
Bitcoin (BTC/USD)	> $77,000	4H 21-EMA Trend Following / High-Volume Volatility Breakout	Bitcoin surged past $77,000 in August 2026 amidst renewed optimism and regulatory clarity. High institutional inflows into Bitcoin ETFs suggest strong underlying demand. A 4H 21-EMA trend following strategy can capture continued upside, while volatility breakouts offer bi-directional opportunities.
Ethereum (ETH/USD)	> $2,400	4H 21-EMA Trend Following / High-Volume Volatility Breakout	Ethereum also climbed above $2,400 in August, following Bitcoin's lead and benefiting from improved regulatory sentiment. This suggests strong bullish momentum, making it suitable for trend-following or volatility breakout strategies.
XRP	(Not Available)	High-Volume Volatility Breakout	XRP price remained in focus with Coinbase whales placing buy and sell walls. This indicates high trading activity and potential for volatility, making it suitable for breakout strategies in either direction.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
Gold (XAU/USD)	(Not Available)	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	Gold recovered from a recent pullback due to softer US Treasury yields, though sticky US inflation keeps Fed hike expectations alive, creating two-way trade. Key pivot and Fibonacci levels can identify potential reversal or continuation points.
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	$83.40 (Aug 28)	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels	WTI Crude settled lower on Friday and for the week due to Fed policy hints and rumors of a Hormuz deal. Geopolitical risks with the Strait of Hormuz closure and OPEC+ supply adjustments create significant volatility. Pivot points and Fibonacci extensions will be critical for navigating price action.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Short-Term

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
EUR/USD	(Not Available)	Short-Term Futures Volatility Trading	The relative ECB-Fed outlook remains crucial for EUR/USD, with Fed Chair Warsh's hawkish comments likely to create substantial Dollar volatility. Short-term strategies can capitalize on intraday swings.
GBP/USD	(Not Available)	Short-Term Futures Volatility Trading	Similar to EUR/USD, GBP/USD will be highly reactive to Fed guidance and broader macro themes. Volatility trading on futures can leverage short-term price movements.

Macro Carry Swings

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
USD/JPY	(Not Available)	Long-Term Carry Swing	USD/JPY is often a carry trade favorite. With potential Fed rate hikes repriced higher and the dollar seeing an upside correction, a long USD/JPY position could benefit from interest rate differentials, although the Bank of Japan's stance needs monitoring.
AUD/USD	(Not Available)	Long-Term Carry Swing (Short)	The Australian Dollar remained supported by expectations for further RBA tightening, but if global risk-off sentiment prevails due to Fed hawkishness, a short AUD/USD carry swing could be considered.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (Illustrative)	Strategy	Selection Reason
Nifty 50 Options	24,175.65 (Aug 28)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (Call for Long, Put for Short)	Nifty is currently in a consolidation phase (24,000-24,400 range). The 15-minute opening range breakout strategy can capture initial directional moves, particularly on days with strong market-moving news or after a period of consolidation.
BankNifty Options	(Not Available)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (Call for Long, Put for Short)	BankNifty also operates within established support and resistance levels (56,000 support, 57,200 resistance). This index is known for its volatility, making opening range breakouts a viable strategy to capitalize on early directional momentum.
