Session Highlight: 🇺🇸 New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

📰 SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US inflation data, with both CPI and PPI exceeding expectations, has heightened concerns about persistent price pressures, fueling speculation of further Federal Reserve rate hikes.
- While the Fed's October FOMC meeting is widely expected to keep rates unchanged, a 25 basis point hike in December is anticipated given elevated inflation and low unemployment levels. A closed meeting on October 19, 2026, is scheduled to review and determine discount rates.
- The 10-year Treasury yield rose to 5.266%, reflecting increased global financing costs.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) is expected to maintain current interest rates at its October 29 meeting, although a December rate increase remains a distinct possibility amidst a resilient Eurozone economy and rising headline inflation.
- The Bank of Japan (BoJ) is unlikely to implement a back-to-back rate hike at its October 30 meeting, following a 25 basis point increase last month, as it typically assesses the impact of policy changes over time.
- China's central bank governor emphasized a "more comprehensive analytical perspective" on global imbalances during a G20 meeting in Bangkok, advocating for consideration beyond just current account and exchange rate adjustments.
- The US dollar eased today, providing support to gold prices.

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are indicating a lower open, particularly for technology and large-cap indices, as Wall Street grapples with a global semiconductor sell-off and hotter-than-expected inflation data. The S&P 500, Nasdaq, and Russell 2000 slipped in early trading, though the Dow Jones Industrial Average edged up slightly.
- A global tech sell-off is intensifying, driven by fears of increasing borrowing costs and concerns over the economic viability of financing AI infrastructure.
- Semiconductor stocks are particularly hard hit, with ASML down approximately 6.4%, SK Hynix plunging over 11-11.8%, Samsung Electronics down 9-11.9%, Infineon declining 2.2%, and TSMC losing 2%.
- Mega-cap US stocks are under pressure: NVIDIA (NVDA) is down 2.04% in pre-market trading, extending a 1.5% decline from the previous session, due to a broader risk-off sentiment and a high-profile Trump share sale. Dell Technologies is leading a retreat in AI hardware, falling 8% in morning trading amidst doubts about enterprise spending justifying the AI build-out.
- European markets broadly declined, with the pan-European STOXX 600 index dropping around 0.35%. Notable exceptions include Ericsson, which advanced 4.5%-9.9% following strong Q3 results, and Pernod Ricard, which gained 3.2% after reporting better-than-expected sales.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity markets extended their three-day rally, with both the Nifty 50 and BSE Sensex closing approximately 2% higher.
- The Sensex surged 1,533.72 points to close at 74,315.61, while the Nifty 50 gained 374.65 points, or 1.66%, ending at 22,997.35.
- This rally was primarily driven by strong performance in IT stocks, with the Nifty IT sector finishing 1.82% higher, and a moderate fall in crude oil prices.
- The Indian rupee strengthened for the fourth consecutive trading day, closing at 95.5 against the US dollar, supported by RBI measures, a weaker dollar index, and falling crude oil prices.
- In contrast to the benchmark indices, broader markets showed weakness, with the Nifty Midcap 100 finishing 0.36% lower and the Nifty Smallcap 100 tumbling 1.31%.
- Top gainers in the Nifty 50 included Tech Mahindra, ICICI Bank, and Reliance Industries. Nestle India was among the top losers, falling nearly 4% after its Q2FY27 results. IDBI Bank shares also fell following news of a government and LIC stake sale.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil: Prices fell more than $1 a barrel today, reversing gains from the previous session, as investors weighed supply risks from ongoing attacks in the Strait of Hormuz against US efforts to ease sanctions on vessels to reduce shipping costs. WTI crude futures were trading around $94.07, and Brent crude futures at $104.67. Previously, WTI had climbed to a three-week high after Houthi forces attacked Saudi Aramco's headquarters and Iran announced new tactics targeting ships in the Strait of Hormuz. Data from the American Petroleum Institute (API) revealed a significant crude oil stock drawdown.
- Gold: The precious metal rebounded over 1% (spot gold up 1.3% at $4,158.63 per ounce) from a one-week low, supported by a weaker US dollar and investors assessing the likelihood of a Federal Reserve interest rate increase after a hot inflation report. Technical analysis suggests resistance levels near $4,180-$4,220.
- Crypto: The final implementation rules for the US stablecoin regulatory framework, known as the GENIUS Act, are expected to be announced before the end of October. BingX EU has secured its Markets in Crypto-Assets Regulation (MiCAR) license from Austria's Financial Market Authority (FMA), allowing it to offer regulated crypto services across 29 countries in the European Economic Area (EEA). While Bitcoin and Ethereum ETFs are facing outflows, altcoins such as Ethereum (ETH), Solana (SOL), and BNB Chain (BNB) are identified as overlooked opportunities with rapidly rising institutional adoption. US crypto tax filers face an October 15, 2026, deadline to submit their 2025 federal returns extension.

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & LEVEL EXECUTION MANUAL

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
TECHM (Tech Mahindra)	~1620 - 1640	~1700	~1590	Nifty IT sector showed strong positive momentum today, leading the overall Indian market rally. Tech Mahindra was a top gainer, up nearly 4% in early trade. This suggests strong institutional buying interest, fitting a 50-SMA support bounce or 20/50 EMA golden cross scenario for long-only positions.

US EQUITIES

Large-Cap (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVDA (NVIDIA Corp)	Short: ~450 - 455 Long: ~430 - 435	Short: ~430 Long: ~460	Short: ~460 Long: ~425	NVIDIA is facing significant pre-market selling, down over 2% today, continuing a trend from yesterday. This weakness, stemming from broader AI hardware repricing and risk-off sentiment, creates a potential short opportunity on a pullback to resistance (e.g., 21-day EMA rejection) or a long opportunity if the stock becomes oversold at key support levels (e.g., 50-day SMA). The current sentiment suggests a downside bias for tactical trades.

Mid-Cap & Small-Cap (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
Industrial Innovators Inc. (IIN) (Hypothetical)	~58.00 - 59.50	~65.00	~56.50	Given the broad tech sell-off and underperformance of broader markets, identifying strong long-only breakouts in mid-cap/small-cap is challenging without live screening. This hypothetical industrial stock is selected based on a scenario where it has formed a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) or shown High Relative Volume (>2.0) in recent sessions, indicating accumulation and potential for a breakout against the general market weakness in tech. This targets sectors less exposed to current AI hardware repricing concerns.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
ETH/USD (Ethereum)	Long: ~4100 - 4150 Short: ~4250 - 4300	Long: ~4300 Short: ~4000	Long: ~4050 Short: ~4350	Despite outflows from Bitcoin and Ethereum ETFs, altcoins like Ethereum are highlighted for overlooked opportunities and rising institutional adoption. This suggests underlying strength for trend-following strategies. Utilizing a 4H 21-EMA trend following, we seek to enter on pullbacks during an uptrend or on rallies during a downtrend, capitalizing on high-volume volatility breakouts. Potential for shorting if broader crypto market weakness emerges, or long if the positive sentiment around institutional adoption translates to price action.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	Long: ~4150 - 4160	~4200 - 4215	~4130	Gold rebounded over 1% today, driven by a weaker US dollar and investors evaluating potential Fed rate hikes after recent inflation data. This suggests a tactical long opportunity. We will use Pivot and Fibonacci extension levels to define entry, target, and stop-loss, focusing on a long bias given the current momentum and supportive macro factors (weaker USD). Immediate resistance is noted around $4,180-$4,220.
WTI Crude Oil (CL=F)	Short: ~94.50 - 95.00 Long: ~93.00 - 93.50	Short: ~93.00 Long: ~96.00	Short: ~95.50 Long: ~92.50	WTI Crude Oil prices fell more than $1 a barrel today, reversing previous gains, as markets weighed supply risks against US efforts to ease sanctions. This creates a short opportunity on rallies towards resistance. However, ongoing geopolitical tensions around the Strait of Hormuz could quickly reverse sentiment. We employ Pivot and Fibonacci extension levels to identify key resistance for short entry or strong support for a contrarian long entry if a bounce occurs.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Entry Range	Target Price	Stop Loss	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Long: ~1.0550 - 1.0570	~1.0620	~1.0520	The US dollar eased today, contributing to a rebound in gold and a strengthening Indian rupee. This broad USD weakness provides a short-term opportunity for long EUR/USD positions, aiming to capitalize on currency pair momentum.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Short: ~148.80 - 149.00	~147.50	~149.50	The Bank of Japan is unlikely to hike rates at its upcoming meeting, maintaining a significant interest rate differential with the US (where the Fed is expected to hike in December, even if October is flat). Despite some short-term USD easing today, the broader carry trade remains attractive due to this differential. A tactical short entry on USD/JPY could be considered if the pair shows weakness, capitalizing on potential yen strength against a softer USD, or targeting profit from the interest rate differential.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Index	Entry Condition	Target Premium	Stop Loss Premium	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50 / BankNifty	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB)	1.5x Premium Paid	0.5x Premium Paid	Indian markets demonstrated a strong rally today, with Nifty 50 closing near 23,000. The 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout strategy aims to capitalize on initial directional momentum. For a bullish breakout above the opening range, buy a Call Option. For a bearish breakout below the opening range, buy a Put Option. This strategy is suitable for the volatile intraday environment of Indian index options, leveraging the initial market sentiment for quick moves.
