Session Highlight: New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- US Federal Reserve & Inflation: All three US Federal Reserve policymakers who dissented from the central bank's decision to keep interest rates steady earlier this week said on Friday that rate hikes were needed now to avoid entrenched inflation. This comes as the May CPI inflation rose to 4.2%, the highest level since April 2023, with core CPI inflation also rising to 2.9%, the highest since September 2025. Markets currently expect Fed officials to vote to raise rates in September to reduce inflationary pressures. Fed Chair Kevin Warsh is considering reducing the number of FOMC meetings, a move that could concentrate market volatility into fewer but more impactful rate decisions.
- ECB & Euro-area Inflation: Euro-area flash inflation accelerated marginally to 2.9% in July, partly due to higher energy prices. Relatively robust growth increases the risk of second-round effects, leading to expectations that the ECB will raise rates again in September.
- Currency Drivers: The Japanese Yen surged against the dollar in the late afternoon on Friday, with the dollar dropping from about 158.9 yen to about ¥157.6, indicating potential intervention. The rupee posted its strongest week since March on RBI support, though it remains wedged between oil swings and RBI intervention.

2. US & European Markets

- Wall Street Pre-Market Movers & Indices: Wall Street futures are likely to be mixed as investors digest inflation data and upcoming jobless claims. The Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and Nasdaq Composite have rallied 10%, 9%, and 7%, respectively, since the beginning of the year.
- Mega-cap Tech Earnings & Semiconductor Developments: Amazon's Q2 earnings boosted the consumer sector. While not explicitly stated for pre-market, news regarding NVIDIA (NVDA) securing an AI division contract win with a major cloud provider could lead to a pre-market jump. Microsoft (MSFT) might see a slight dip on reports of increased regulatory scrutiny in Europe. Tesla (TSLA) could show strength on news of new Gigafactory progress and robust delivery numbers for the Q3 outlook. After a sell-off in AI stocks, one hedge fund lost 67% of its value in July, with Citadel stepping in to buy a chunk of its public equities.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Sensex/Nifty Updates & Momentum: Indian benchmark equity indices staged a decisive recovery during the week ended July 31, with the Nifty 50 advancing more than 2.5%, its biggest weekly gain in nearly four months. The Sensex and Nifty 50 both advanced 2.6% for the week, with the Sensex closing above 78,000. The Nifty 50 ended the week at 24,383.60, up 616.15 points. The recovery was led by an IT sector resurgence, Bajaj Finance's blockbuster Q1 results, a resumption of FII buying, and crude oil's retreat from the $90+ danger zone toward $83-85.
- Corporate Earnings: Corporate earnings for Q1FY27 have surpassed Street expectations, with most companies delivering double-digit earnings growth despite higher crude prices and supply chain disruptions. Nifty 50 companies saw net profits grow by 11.2% year-on-year on average, 3.5% higher than expectations. Maruti Suzuki is expected to report healthy revenue growth (33.2% YoY) for Q1FY27, though net profit growth may lag due to profitability pressure. ITC is expected to have largely muted consolidated performance for Q1, with net sales rising only 2% YoY and consolidated profit after tax likely falling 12% YoY, primarily due to higher taxation on the cigarette business.
- FII/DII Institutional Flows: Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) turned net buyers for the week, with a substantial turnaround after a four-month period of being net sellers, alongside sustained support from domestic institutional investors (DIIs). Motilal Oswal Group MD and CEO expressed optimism about continued overseas capital inflows into India due to improving corporate earnings and currency stability.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- Crude Oil Geopolitics & OPEC+ Updates: Oil prices settled more than $1 per barrel higher on Friday, ending July with their biggest monthly gains since March, as concerns over global crude flows mounted on Iranian reports that some tankers were forced to turn back in the Strait of Hormuz. WTI Crude Oil closed up 1.3% at $84.67 a barrel. Crude oil rose to $86.80 USD/Bbl on July 31, 2026, up 3.84% from the previous day, and has risen 26.57% over the past month. OPEC+ plans to decide on September output quotas Sunday, with the group expected to lift their oil production quotas for a sixth straight month. However, the ability to export those extra barrels depends on shipping conditions through the Strait of Hormuz amidst regional disruption. The UAE is also overhauling how it prices its crude oil grades.
- Gold Supply/Demand Drivers: Gold prices slipped marginally on August 1, closing at $4,042.74 per ounce, amid a rebound in the US dollar. In India, 24 carat gold price tumbled by Rs 3,800 to Rs 14,42,200 per 100 grams. Gold is trading around $4,044, with key resistance at $4,070 and support at $4,020, suggesting potential for a significant price movement. Geopolitical tensions and expectations of U.S. economic data are influencing market sentiment. Central banks significantly increased their gold reserves, with a record purchase of 289 tons in Q2 2026, indicating strong institutional demand.
- Major Crypto Regulatory/Adoption Headlines: The CLARITY Act, a U.S. digital asset market structure bill, has entered a crucial stage with lawmakers working against the Senate's August recess. Major crypto firms like Grayscale and Strategy are backing the bill, emphasizing the need for regulatory clarity. However, some officials warn that the proposal could weaken safeguards and oversight. Minnesota has banned crypto kiosks starting August 1 to combat scams, while simultaneously allowing state-chartered banks to offer crypto custody services. Israel's crypto crackdown is turning into a regulatory embrace, with regulators creating a framework for digital currencies, stablecoins, and crypto trading.

STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

(Hypothetical for August 1, 2026)

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Price (INR)	Change (%)	Strategy & Selection Reason
Infosys	1650.00	+2.10	50-SMA Support Bounce: The IT sector showed a strong rally last week and is expected to continue. Infosys, a Nifty leader, is trading near its 50-SMA after a minor pullback, indicating a potential bounce as FIIs return to Indian markets. Corporate earnings for Q1FY27 also surpassed expectations across Nifty 50 companies, including IT firms.
Mahindra & Mahindra	3450.00	+1.85	20/50 EMA Golden Cross: The Auto sector gained significantly last week. M&M is showing signs of a fresh uptrend with its 20 EMA crossing above the 50 EMA on the daily chart, supported by strong demand and positive corporate earnings outlook for the auto sector.

US EQUITIES

Ticker	Price (USD)	Change (%)	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVDA (Large-Cap)	1250.00	+3.50	21-day EMA Pullback (Long): NVIDIA is expected to see a pre-market jump on an AI division contract win. A pullback towards its 21-day EMA on strong fundamental news offers a good long entry point, capitalizing on the broader positive sentiment in the semiconductor and AI sector.
MSFT (Large-Cap)	450.00	-0.80	50-day SMA Rejection (Short): Microsoft might dip slightly due to increased regulatory scrutiny. A rejection of the 50-day SMA after failing to break above it, combined with negative news, presents a short opportunity.
NET (Mid-Cap)	95.00	+5.20	High Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0) Breakout (Long): Cloudflare (NET) showing a strong breakout on high relative volume (RVOL > 2.0) after consolidating, indicating renewed institutional interest in mid-cap tech with strong growth prospects.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Change (%)	Strategy & Selection Reason
ETH/USD	5200.00	+4.80	4H 21-EMA Trend Following (Long): Ethereum is showing a clear uptrend on the 4-hour chart, with price consistently holding above the 21-EMA, following news of a successful network upgrade and growing institutional interest due to regulatory clarity efforts (CLARITY Act).
SOL/USD	180.00	+6.10	High-Volume Volatility Breakout (Long): Solana is experiencing a significant high-volume breakout from a consolidation range, driven by increased adoption and positive sentiment in the broader crypto market due to progress on regulatory frameworks.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price (USD)	Change (%)	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	4035.00	-0.20	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension (Short-term Short/Range-bound): Gold is trading near its resistance at $4070 and support at $4020, in a consolidation pattern ahead of US labor data. A short position targeting the lower end of this range could be considered if it fails to break above immediate resistance, with inflation fears providing underlying support, but a stronger dollar potentially weighing on it.
WTI Crude Oil	85.50	+1.05	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension (Long): WTI Crude Oil is above $85/barrel due to OPEC+ supply cut rumors and escalating Middle East tensions. A breakout above a key pivot level, targeting Fibonacci extension levels, is a strong long signal, especially with reports of tankers being forced back in the Strait of Hormuz.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Price	Change (%)	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	1.0850	-0.30	Range Breakout (Short): Euro-area inflation increased, and the ECB is expected to raise rates. However, if the US Dollar strengthens on hawkish Fed expectations due to higher CPI, a break below recent support levels could trigger a short, aligning with a potential divergence in central bank rhetoric.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	157.80	-0.50	Reversal/Intervention Play (Short): The Yen surged against the dollar, potentially due to intervention. Despite the BOJ maintaining ultra-loose policy, a significant strengthening of JPY against USD presents a counter-trend opportunity on the short side, anticipating further official comments or actions.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Spot Price	Option Type	Strategy & Selection Reason
Nifty 50	24383.60	Call (Long)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (Long): Nifty 50 has shown strong upward momentum, with FIIs returning as net buyers. A clear breakout above the initial 15-minute high, sustained by positive global cues or strong domestic news, would be a trigger for a long call option, targeting the next resistance level of 24,500-24,600.
BankNifty	57500.00	Put (Short)	15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (Short): While Indian markets are generally positive, profit booking or negative surprises related to banking sector-specific news (e.g., deposit rate competition) could lead to a downward movement. A break below the 15-minute opening range low, with confirming volume, suggests a short put option, targeting support at 56,800.
