Date: Monday, September 28, 2026

Session Highlight:  New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The Federal Reserve implemented a 0.25% interest rate hike in September 2026, marking a shift to action in combating persistent inflation, driven by a strong August jobs report and rising oil prices. This was the first rate hike since 2023. Fed Chair Kevin Warsh's comments hinted at the possibility of further rate increases this year, leading to market volatility. The target range for the federal funds rate is now 3.75% to 4.00%.
- The European Central Bank (ECB) also raised its policy rate by 25 basis points in September, citing inflationary pressures from the Middle East conflict and robust economic growth. Central banks globally are adopting a more cautious and hawkish stance due to persistent inflation and higher energy prices.
- The Bank of Japan (BoJ) also raised its target interest rate to 1.25% from 1%, its highest in 31 years, signaling a new stage in Japanese monetary policy. The global credit tightening cycle is underway, with major central banks moving in unison to address common inflationary forces.
- The Bank of England (BoE) announced its September 2026 decision on Quantitative Tightening (QT), moving to a multi-year path for unwinding assets built up through Quantitative Easing (QE).

2. US & European Markets

- US stock futures are broadly lower in pre-market trading, with the Dow, Nasdaq, and S&P 500 futures all declining, influenced by rising oil prices and renewed US-Iran tensions. The 10-year Treasury bond yield climbed above 5.2%, and the 30-year yield surpassed 5.5%, nearing multi-year highs.
- NVIDIA (NVDA) shares rose nearly 2% in pre-market trading after announcing a new "Open Agent Safety Platform" to monitor AI agents and a record $150 billion increase to its stock buyback authorization, bringing the total to $235 billion. NVIDIA's revenue more than doubled year-over-year in its most recent quarter, with net income near $59.7 billion.
- Other mega-cap tech stocks like Microsoft (MSFT) showed pre-market strength, while Tesla (TSLA) has faced concerns over production forecasts and competitive pressures. However, tech stocks in general are declining in pre-market, with SK Hynix, SanDisk, Intel, and Meta among those down.
- Magnachip Semiconductor (MX) surged 11.8% in pre-market trading, indicating renewed attention on the semiconductor sector despite broader geopolitical tensions and company-specific challenges.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- Indian equity markets opened lower on Monday, with both the Nifty 50 and BSE Sensex declining amidst higher crude oil prices, rupee weakness, and global market trends. The Nifty 50 traded down 0.81% and the BSE Sensex 30 fell 0.78% in early trade.
- Indian stocks experienced a sharp fall on September 28, 2026, due to a setback in US-Iran diplomacy, which sent crude oil prices higher, and deepened a sell-off influenced by external factors. The BSE Sensex fell 1,124.02 points, or 1.52%, and the Nifty 50 dropped 360.25 points, or 1.56%.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) remained net sellers in Indian equities for the sixth consecutive week, offloading ₹18,531 crore so far in September, while Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) invested ₹52,617 crore during the month. Rising US Treasury yields and elevated crude oil prices are cited as key reasons for FII outflows.
- India VIX, a measure of market volatility, surged 12.54% to 13.69.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil futures pushed toward $95 a barrel after President Donald Trump rejected an Iranian proposal related to reopening the Strait of Hormuz, reigniting geopolitical tensions and driving oil prices higher. WTI was up over 3.56% at $95.70 per barrel, and Brent crude rose 3.16% to $100.52 per barrel in pre-market trading.
- The oil market is experiencing volatility due to the ongoing US-Iran diplomacy and concerns over supply disruptions, keeping attention on geopolitical headlines. Resistance levels for oil are seen at $94.75, $96.78, and $97.22, with support at $91.51 and $91.23.
- Gold prices were mixed, with some reports indicating a decline as investors reassess global interest rate expectations.
- In crypto news, the SEC and CFTC issued a joint release on September 25, 2026, formally classifying 16 crypto assets, including Bitcoin (BTC), Ethereum (ETH), Solana (SOL), and Cardano (ADA), as digital commodities. This guidance also clarified that certain staking activities do not constitute securities transactions.
- Digital Commodities Inc. announced the acquisition of approximately C$100,000 of Solana (SOL) on September 28, funded by monetizing a portion of its physical gold holdings, as part of a new digital asset treasury strategy focused on AI-driven blockchain activity. Bitcoin remains the company's reserve foundation.

📊 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
RELIANCE	Reliance Industries (RIL) is observed to be bouncing off its 50-SMA support on the daily chart, indicating a potential reversal to the upside after recent market weakness.

US EQUITIES

Ticker	Direction	Strategy & Selection Reason
NVDA	Bi-Directional	Monitoring for a 21-day EMA pullback for potential long entry, given strong underlying AI demand and recent stock buyback news. Conversely, a clear rejection from the 50-day SMA could trigger a short, especially if broader tech weakness persists.
MSFT	Bi-Directional	Approaching 21-day EMA support after a recent strong run, indicating a potential bounce for long entry. A break below could signal further downside.
PLTR	Long-Only	Exhibiting characteristics of a Stage-2 VCP (Volatility Contraction Pattern) breakout, combined with high Relative Volume (RVOL > 2.0), suggesting strong institutional accumulation and upward momentum.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
BTC/USD	Currently following a bullish trend above the 4H 21-EMA. Monitoring for high-volume volatility breakouts above key resistance levels (e.g., $70,000) for long positions, or a decisive break below the 21-EMA for potential short opportunities if momentum shifts.
SOL/USD	Showing signs of high-volume volatility breakouts, potentially driven by recent news of institutional adoption. The 4H 21-EMA is acting as dynamic support; a bounce confirms long interest, while a failure to hold suggests short entry.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
XAU/USD (Gold)	Testing pivot resistance around $2350. Using Fibonacci extension levels to identify potential targets at $2375 for long, or retracement levels (e.g., $2330) for short if resistance holds. Geopolitical tensions could provide upside catalyst.
WTI Crude Oil	Trading above the R1 pivot point, with potential to target Fibonacci extension at $88.50. Strong upward momentum fueled by US-Iran tensions. Looking for long entries on pullbacks to support around $87.00; a breakdown below this could initiate short positions.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Consolidating near 1.0750. Monitoring for a decisive breakout above 1.0780 for long positions or a breakdown below 1.0720 for short, driven by short-term technicals and ECB rate outlook.
GBP/USD (Short-Term)	Testing 1.2500 resistance. A strong break above could signal long opportunity on positive UK economic data or hawkish BoE comments. Rejection at resistance could lead to short entry.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Maintaining a bullish bias due to interest rate differentials and BoJ's recent rate hike. Looking for pullbacks to 148.50 for long entries, anticipating continued carry trade interest.
AUD/USD (Macro Carry Swing)	Currently range-bound near 0.6500. RBA commentary or commodity price movements (e.g., iron ore) will be key drivers for breakout or breakdown trades.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason
NIFTY 50	Implementing a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy. Buy Call options for a breakout above the opening range high, targeting upside momentum. Buy Put options for a breakdown below the opening range low, targeting downside momentum.
BANKNIFTY	Applying a 15-Minute Opening Range Breakout (ORB) strategy. Buy Call options if BankNifty breaks above its opening range high, anticipating bullish continuation. Buy Put options if it breaks below the opening range low, expecting bearish continuation.
