Date: October 13, 2026

Session Highlight: 🇺🇸 New York Session Pre-Open Briefing (1 Hr Before Open)

Session News Focus: Wall Street pre-market movers, US Federal Reserve news, mega-cap US stocks (NVDA, MSFT, TSLA), and WTI Crude Oil catalysts.

📰 SECTION 0: DAILY MACRO & FINANCIAL NEWS DIGEST

1. Global Macro & Central Banks

- The Federal Reserve Board released minutes from its August and September discount rate meetings.
- Markets are focused on the upcoming U.S. consumer price inflation data for September, due Wednesday, as a key input for the Federal Reserve's October 28 interest rate decision. Current market pricing indicates a 76% probability of a rate hold, with increases expected in subsequent months.
- The 2026 Economics Nobel Prize was awarded for research highlighting that macroeconomic stability is heavily influenced by the expectations and decisions of households and firms, underscoring the importance of credible central bank communication.
- The G-24 noted the global economy remains resilient but faces increasing fragmentation, high uncertainty, geopolitical tensions, rising commodity prices, and frequent extreme weather events. Higher interest rates in advanced economies could tighten global financing conditions and weaken emerging market currencies.

2. US & European Markets

- U.S. equity markets opened modestly lower, with mixed performance across major indices; the Nasdaq 100 showed a decline of 0.84% pre-market, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average was up 0.81%.
- Pre-market movers include UnitedHealth (UNH) jumping 4.44% and Goldman Sachs (GS) gaining on strong revenue, while chip stocks like Western Digital (WDC) and Seagate Technology (STX) slid significantly. Moderna (MRNA) also saw declines.
- JPMorgan Chase missed earnings estimates, while Citigroup, Goldman Sachs, and Wells Fargo exceeded expectations. Johnson & Johnson and UnitedHealth also reported better-than-expected earnings.
- Nvidia (NVDA) is collaborating with Navitas (NVTS) on an 800V-to-12V power delivery board for next-generation AI infrastructure, indicating continued growth in AI-related segments.
- Mega-cap tech stocks, including NVDA, MSFT, and TSLA, continue to heavily influence the S&P 500, with concerns about market concentration.
- European bourses are set for a slightly lower open.

3. Indian Markets & Dalal Street

- The Indian stock market closed sharply higher on Tuesday (October 13, 2026), with the Sensex surging 1.54% and the Nifty 50 gaining 1.6%, marking its best single-day rebound in over two months.
- The rally was broad-based, led by strong performance in IT, auto, financial, FMCG, and metal sectors.
- Information technology (IT) shares were particularly strong, with HCLTech jumping 8.28% after reporting a 21.18% rise in consolidated net profit, helped by higher margins from AI operations. Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) rose 6.59% and Infosys gained 4.44%.
- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) offloaded equities worth ₹1,708.48 crore on Monday, but Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) remained buyers, purchasing ₹3,045.02 crore.

4. Commodities & Crypto Wire

- WTI Crude Oil dipped from recent multi-week highs to around $91-$93 per barrel, largely due to expectations of increased Russian diesel supplies after the US President's decision to temporarily lift sanctions on Russian fuel.
- However, ongoing Middle East tensions and the "energy war" between Russia and Ukraine continue to provide underlying support and volatility to crude prices.
- Gold prices dipped below $4,200 an ounce, reversing earlier gains, as traders assessed oil price swings and awaited further clarity on the US Federal Reserve's rate path. Despite higher rates being a headwind, gold has held above $4,000, supported by robust inflows into gold-backed ETFs and central bank purchases.
- Bitcoin (BTC) experienced significant volatility, briefly falling below $81K before recovering to around $83.3K. Ether (ETH) also rebounded to near $2,520.
- The cryptocurrency market remains sensitive to U.S. inflation expectations and shifts in institutional capital flows. U.S. spot Bitcoin and Ether ETFs recorded net outflows on October 12, with Ether ETFs seeing their tenth consecutive day of net outflows.

🎯 STRATEGY-BASED DAILY TICKER SELECTION & SECTOR CONSTRAINTS

INDIAN EQUITIES (STRICTLY LONG-ONLY)

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy & Selection Reason	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
HCLTECH	Large-Cap	Nifty Leader: Strong Q2 earnings (21.18% profit increase) driven by AI operations and leading the IT sector rally (8.28% jump). Likely to be trading above 50-SMA and 20/50 EMA Golden Cross after today's surge.	Buy on 50-SMA support retest or minor pullback.	Open / Strict SL below 50-SMA.
INFY	Large-Cap	Nifty Leader: Part of the broad IT sector rally, gaining 4.44% following HCLTech's positive earnings and overall sector momentum. Look for continuation patterns on 20/50 EMA cross.	Buy on 20 EMA pullback.	Open / Strict SL below 20 EMA.

US EQUITIES

Ticker	Market Cap	Strategy & Selection Reason	Direction	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
NVDA	Large-Cap	Mega-cap Growth Leader: News of collaboration on next-gen AI infrastructure with Navitas, indicating continued AI tailwinds. Monitor for 21-day EMA pullback as a potential entry, given its significant market impact.	Bi-Directional	Buy on 21-day EMA pullback.	Open / SL below 50-day SMA.
WDC	Mid-Cap	Chip Stock Weakness: Significant pre-market decline (-6.10% on Benzinga, -6.54% on ChartMill) due to concerns about capacity dynamics and pricing uncertainty. A candidate for a 50-day SMA rejection strategy for a short opportunity.	Bi-Directional	Sell on 50-day SMA rejection.	Open / SL above 50-day SMA.
UNH	Large-Cap	Mega-cap Growth Leader: Strong pre-market performance (+2.2% to +4.44%) after reporting better-than-expected Q3 earnings and lifting its FY profit outlook. A 21-day EMA pullback could offer a long entry.	Bi-Directional	Buy on 21-day EMA pullback.	Open / SL below 50-day SMA.
BKYI	Small-Cap	High Relative Volume Breakout: BIO-key International, Inc. showed a massive 143.64% pre-market gain with high volume. This fits the RVOL > 2.0 breakout strategy for long-only small-caps.	Long-Only	Buy on breakout confirmation after open.	Open / Trail SL.

CRYPTO FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
BTC/USD	4H 21-EMA Trend Following & Volatility Breakout: Bitcoin experienced significant volatility, dipping below $81K and rebounding to $83.3K. High-volume breakouts on 4H chart indicate clear trend. Net outflows from US spot ETFs suggest caution but bounces are strong.	Long on 4H 21-EMA support bounce / Short on 4H 21-EMA rejection.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
ETH/USD	4H 21-EMA Trend Following & Volatility Breakout: Ether recovered to $2,520 but faces persistent spot ETF outflows. High volume volatility breakouts on 4H chart are key.	Long on 4H 21-EMA support bounce / Short on 4H 21-EMA rejection.	Dynamic / Dynamic.

COMMODITIES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
XAU/USD (Gold)	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels: Gold dipped below $4,200 but is holding above $4,000. It is influenced by Fed rate path clues and oil price swings. Use Fibonacci retracement/extension from recent swings to identify entry/exit. Potential for rebound if USD softens further.	Long on pivot support bounce (e.g., $4,000) / Short on Fibonacci resistance rejection.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
WTI Crude Oil	Pivot & Fibonacci Extension Levels: WTI is volatile, trading around $91-$93. News of Russian diesel supply puts downward pressure, but Middle East tensions provide support. A "Buy" signal was noted from the $87.00 support zone targeting $95.00 based on wave analysis.	Long on pivot support retest (e.g., $91.00) / Short on Fibonacci resistance rejection (e.g., $95.00).	Dynamic / Dynamic.

FOREX FUTURES (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
EUR/USD (Short-Term)	Technical Breakouts on 15-min Chart: The U.S. dollar is modestly weakening against most major currencies, consistent with lower Treasury yields. Look for breakouts from consolidation patterns.	Buy on resistance breakout / Sell on support breakdown.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
GBP/USD (Short-Term)	Technical Breakouts on 15-min Chart: Similar to EUR/USD, driven by USD weakness and European market sentiment (expected lower open).	Buy on resistance breakout / Sell on support breakdown.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
USD/JPY (Macro Carry Swing)	Yield Differential & Macro Sentiment: USD holding near 18-month high, but weakening today. Japanese Yen (JPY) movements against the USD are sensitive to interest rate differentials and risk sentiment. A long-term carry trade might be challenged by shifting Fed expectations.	Monitor for trend continuation/reversal on daily chart.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
AUD/USD (Macro Carry Swing)	Commodity Link & Risk Sentiment: AUD is often a proxy for global growth and commodity prices. With mixed commodity news and global macro uncertainty, look for swing opportunities based on risk-on/off flows and commodity price stability.	Monitor for trend continuation/reversal on daily chart.	Dynamic / Dynamic.

INDIAN OPTIONS (BI-DIRECTIONAL)

Ticker	Strategy & Selection Reason	Entry Range	Target / Stop Loss
NIFTY 50	15-Minute Opening Range Breakouts: Indian markets saw a strong rally today. Look for a clear breakout from the initial 15-minute range to identify intraday direction.	Buy Call above 15-min high / Buy Put below 15-min low.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
BANKNIFTY	15-Minute Opening Range Breakouts: The Nifty Bank index also advanced 1.03%. This strategy capitalizes on initial directional momentum for the financial sector.	Buy Call above 15-min high / Buy Put below 15-min low.	Dynamic / Dynamic.
